10. Open forum with the Provost

-Diane Alperin reported that four faculty have volunteered to serve on the committees for parking appeals, and that the Colleges of Nursing and the College for Design and Social Inquiry have volunteered to test the online SPOT program.

-President Saunders said that the university is working with the firm “Royal” to develop a student recruitment strategy. The job ad for the position of Provost is advertised in the Chronicle and other publications. Review of applications will begin January 15, 2011. The University has received many qualified applicants for the Vice President for Research. The University expects to announce the appointment of the Executive Director for HBOI very soon. There will be a search for the Associate Provost of Marine and Biological Initiatives. Faculty are encouraged to continue sending in their feedback and suggestions to the search committee for the Associate Provost of E-Learning. The University will be interviewing candidates for the Dean of the College of Nursing in January and February. Fred Hoffman asked if the position of Senior Vice President for Communications and marketing would be eliminated. President Saunders said that the position of Senior Vice President for Communications and Marketing will probably be eliminated.

-Tim Lenz asked if the proposal for a new “for profit” medical school in West Palm Beach will hurt FAU. The Provost said she did not think so because its tuition is double that of our medical school and it will probably help our institution.

-In terms of plans to encourage enrollment growth, Diane Alperin said that besides hiring the firm Royal, we are also raising caps, looking at student success, studying the survey of student engagement, increasing advising and increasing our instructional pool.

-The President said that the administration is looking at models from other schools that have a communication process with the community schools that have been successful by working at the transition of the students. She also said that the medical school will be an attractor as well. The business school just received national recognition.

11. Good of the Senate:

-The President addressed the Senate and thanked the faculty for another successful semester. President Saunders said that she enjoyed getting to know everyone and encouraged everyone to attend graduation and walk out where the families are afterwards. She encouraged the faculty to get involved with the students outside of class. President Saunders spoke about National Survey of Student Engagement, and asked the faculty to look at the study and discuss its finding.
