THRU: Dr. Luc Wille
Professor and Chair of the Physics Department

SUBJECT: Course Addition/Change in Medical Physics program

The course BSC 6834 Introduction to Radiation Biology is offered as a core course in the Medical Physics program since 2010, and it was cross-listed in the schedule of the Physics Department. It is taught by Dr. Charles Shang, Adjunct Associate Professor/Research Affiliate, and Graduate Faculty Member.

The PSM in Medical Physics and the Medical Physics Certificate for PhD holders in the Medical Physics program are Nationally accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Medical Physics Education Programs (CAMPEP).

Last May I met with Dr. Mark Kantorow, Assistant Dean for Graduate Programs, Professor of Biomedical Science and he told me that the College of Medicine has no longer interest in this course. As a temporary solution, this core course for Medical Physics is listed in the Physics Department's schedule under the special topics PHY 6938.

Please replace BSC 6834 Introduction to Radiation Biology with the course RAT 6204 Radiation Biology in the requirements for the PSM in Medical Physics, Medical Physics Certificate, and the Combined BS in Physics/PSM in Medical Physics.
