From "West Side Story" to Music Inspired by America

Yoko Sata Kothari

While the history of classical music originates in Europe, the United States has produced more than a few great composers. Not only has their music earned international recognition, but the new sound from America has had a strong influence on some European composers. Celebrating American music, this program features not only the music from "West Side Story" on Broadway to American Jazz, but also foreign compositions which were inspired by America.

This is not a typical musical concert. Since she is a storyteller at the piano as well as an artist, Kothari's mission is both to communicate with the audience with her signature talk and to have them experience the interesting stories behind the music through her performance. Her uniquely titled concert programs are designed to relate to everyone, as well as to educate them. At this concert, she is going to "Talk & Play" a program which includes music by Bernstein, Gershwin and Dvorak.
