Richard Mangan, M.A.
Instructor of Criminology and Criminal Justice
rmangan@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-2878
Office: Social Science- SO 219

After earning a BA from the University of New Hampshire and an MA from Florida State University, Professor Mangan began a distinguished career in law enforcement. He worked for a local police department before becoming a special agent and supervisor in the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration for 25 years. He has been teaching at FAU for 18 years, serves as the advisor for the American Criminal Justice Association and also coordinates field experience/internship placements for CJ majors. Professor Mangan is also the Program Coordinator for the Public Safety Administration degree program located in the FAU School of Public Administration.

Allen Smith, DBA
Steward Distinguished Professor of Marketing
aesmith@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-2386
Office: Fleming Hall- FL 202

Dr. Smith earned his doctorate from Texas Tech University. His areas of expertise are marketing strategy, environmental analysis, opportunity identification, brand strategy, the development of innovative products and services, advertising, and promotion strategy.

Joy McClellan, LCSW
Visiting Instructor in the School of Social Work
Jmcclel2@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-0385
Office SO 303E

Joy McClellan, LCSW, earned a BSW degree from Florida State University and an MSW from Barry University. Her early social work practice included community organization and community mental health. Professor McClellan has worked in the areas of children’s mental health, family strengthening and family preservation, and child welfare for the last 15 years. Her special interest areas include system of care work and child welfare education. She is a member of NASW and serves as a board member of the Federation of Families of Palm Beach County.
Peter Ricci, Ed.D.
Director, Hospitality Management
Peter.ricci@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-3666
Office: Fleming Hall -FL 320

A hospitality industry veteran with over 20 years of managerial experience in segments including: food service, hotel management, incentive travel/meeting planning, and destination marketing. While filling the role of hotel general manager for almost a decade, Dr. Ricci served as a part-time educator before entering academia full time as both an instructor and administrator. Dr. Ricci is the director of the hospitality management program in the college of business—one of FAU’s fastest growing majors. He received his doctorate in Higher Education Administration, Educational Leadership, from the University of Central Florida and his Master of Science degree in recreational studies (MSRS) with a tourism emphasis from the University of Florid as well as a bachelor of arts (BA) in Sociology from the University of Florida.

Don Torok, Ph.D., FACSM
Associate Dean, College of Education &
Associate Professor, Exercise Science and Health Promotion
torok@fau.edu
Phone: 954-236-1261
Office: Davie, ES 205 (or Boca Campus ED 216)

Dr. Don Torok is the Associate Dean in the College of Education and the former chair of the Department of Exercise Science & Health Promotion and has been at FAU for 22 years. Dr. Torok is a fellow of the American College of Sports Medicine and serves on two national committees, and is on the Executive committee of the Southeast American College of Sports Medicine. Dr. Torok also is the Chair of the Broward County Tobacco-Free Partnership and serves on the executive committee of South Florida Asthma consortium. Dr. Torok began his career as an elementary school teacher and coach. He went back to school to attain the knowledge needed to assist his athletes with their training and at that time was exposed to the research side of the field. He worked with some great professors, who mentored him. Dr. Torok came to FAU to continue working with one of those mentors and has been here ever since.

Julia L. Mason, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor of English
Jmason32@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-3833
Office: CU-3329

Dr. Julia Mason is an assistant professor in the Department of English. Her areas of specialization include Rhetoric and Composition, Professional and Technical Writing, Posthuman Theory, Computers and Composition.
Dr. Cerveny worked primarily in the health care industry, was formerly affiliated with the Goldratt Institute and consults for a wide variety of companies such as Siemens, the Veterans Administration, the North Broward Hospital District, and Office Depot. She specializes in the “Theory of Constraints” (a management methodology with specific applications) that helps organizations identify and focus intelligent solutions focused on their “weakest link”. She currently teaches both Operations Management and Strategy courses. She received her B.A. from the University of Texas Austin and her master’s and Ph.D. from the School of Management of the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Mirya Holman received her PhD from Claremont Graduate University in American Politics and Public Policy and her BA from Loyola University New Orleans in Political Science and History. She teaches and conducts research about on public policy and American government. Her present research focuses on the politics of identity, gender, race, and ethnicity, as well as urban politics, environmental attitudes, and policy implementation. Her research has been published in Women, Politics, and Policy, Social Science Quarterly, The Yale Journal of Health Policy, Law, and Ethics, The Suffolk University Law Review, and The Roger Williams Law Review, as well as in the New York Times and on Slate.com.

Lori Dassa has been teaching courses in Effective Teaching Practices and Beginning Reading for over 8 years. Her areas of interest are teacher retention, developmentally appropriate practices for young children and critical literacy. She has published two books related to helping elementary school teachers pass state exams and how to be successful teacher. She has earned masters of education in PreK/Primary education and a doctorate in Curriculum and Instruction. Before coming to FAU she was a Palm Beach County teacher for nine years. She worked in grades K, 3 and reading remediation.
Krystal D. Mize, Ph.D.
Instructor and Undergraduate Coordinator
Kmize1@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-3369
Office: BS-12

Krystal D. Mize, Ph.D. graduated from FAU’s Evolutionary Psychology program in 2008. Her graduate research centered on the evolved nature of jealousy. Dr. Mize’s research interests are eclectic. Beyond her extensive involvement in the WAVES Emotion Lab research, Dr. Mize is interested in a variety of other interpersonal relationship issues, including differential parental investment, romantic and sexual relationships, and intra-sexual competition. She is interested in religious beliefs, greed and denial as they are related to environmental values as well. Although her research interests are diverse, the overarching theme to Dr. Mize’s work is examining the evolved psychology underlying behaviors. Dr. Mize works with the WAVES Emotion Lab as a Senior Research Manager, overseeing much of the research that goes on in the laboratory.

Evelyn Frazier, Ph. D.
Senior Instructor
efrazier@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-4472
Office: SC 212

Dr. Frazier is a senior instructor within the Department of Biological Sciences. She is the director of the NSF- Undergraduate Research and Mentoring program, as well as, the director of the Introduction to Honors and Honors Thesis Programs. She also supervises the Environmental Science Internship program. Her research interests include entomology and plant and insect interactions. She received her doctorate degree from Northern Arizona University.

Tsung-Chow (Joe) Su, Eng.Sc.D.
Professor of Ocean and Mechanical Engineering
su@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-3896
Office: EG 36/Rm 180

Tsung-chow Su is currently the Professor and Director, Undergraduate Research in the Department of Ocean and Mechanical Engineering. He specialized in the general area of fluid mechanics and flow-structure interactions. His projects have been funded by National Science Foundation, Office of Naval Research, the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, as well as several other sources. Dr. Su has also received 2002 College of Engineering Dean’s awards in recognition of his contributions toward achievement of the goals of COE at FAU. He is a Fellow of ASCE, Associate Fellow of AIAA, and the Founding Member of American Academy of Nanomedicine.
Dr. Jesse Saginor holds a Ph.D. in Urban Studies and Public Affairs with a concentration on real estate and economic development from Cleveland State University. He also has a Master’s degree in Public Administration from the Ohio State University. Dr. Saginor worked as an Assistant Professor for seven years at Texas A&M University, where he taught in the undergraduate Urban and Regional Planning Program and the Master of Land and Property Development Program. He has taught various courses in infrastructure development, market analysis, public-private partnerships and real estate development. He served on the executive board for the Downtown Bryan Economic Development Association for six years and five years as a Historic Landmark Commissioner for the City of Bryan, Texas. He also serves as the Career Center Vice-Chair for the American Real Estate Society.

Dr. Gina Carreno-Lukasik attended Furman University in Greenville, SC, where she double majored in Sociology and English. She earned her Masters and Ph.D. in sociology from Florida State University. She has been an Instructor of Sociology at FAU since fall 2002. Her teaching interests include Stratification/Inequality (Gender, Sexual Orientation, Race-ethnicity, Social Class, Age, and Disability), Sociology of Family; Medical Sociology/Medical Ethics, Human Sexuality, Introduction to Sociology and Social Problems.

Tami Sorgente has been an instructor and undergraduate advisor in the department of Computer and Electrical Engineering and Computer Science (CEECS) in the college of Engineering and Computer Science at Florida Atlantic University since 2005. She earned a Bachelor of Fine Arts at FAU and returned to earn a Master of Science in Computer Science and has combined her art and computer science backgrounds to develop a course on Computer Animation for CS and CE students. In addition she has taught entry level programming courses, senior level electives and core courses.
Marylou R. Naumoff, Ph.D.
Visiting Instructor
mnaumoff@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-3850
Office: CU 211

Marylou R. Naumoff received her PhD in Communication from Wayne State University and her MA and BA in Communication from the University of Cincinnati. She has been teaching in the area of Speech, Communication, and Rhetoric for thirteen years. Her areas of interest are Contemporary Rhetoric, Cultural Studies, and Feminist theory. Her current research focuses on the intersection of masculinity, race, and national identity. Marylou has been an instructor at Florida Atlantic University since 2012 and her teaching interests include Classical and Contemporary Rhetoric, Rhetorical Criticism, Popular Culture, and Aesthetics.

Evonne Rezler, Ph.D.
Associate Scientist & Director for Program Assessment, Charles E. Schmidt College of Science
erezler@fau.edu
Phone: 561-297-2689
Office: PS 310

Dr. Rezler received her Bachelor of Science with Honors and Doctor of Philosophy degrees in Chemistry at the University of Sydney, Australia. She then moved to Tucson, Arizona and carried out Postdoctoral research at the Arizona Cancer Center. Dr. Rezler's main research interests are in chemical education: the adaptation and incorporation of novel and specifically spectroscopy-based research into the undergraduate curriculum to enhance active participation and increase student engagement in their learning process. Dr. Rezler teaches and has research opportunities available in her Lab for undergraduate students (Directed Independent Study, CHM 4905).