SUBJECT: REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF DEGREE TERMINATIONS: MA/MAT IN FRENCH, MA/MAT IN SPANISH, MA IN COMPARATIVE LITERATURE, MA IN LINGUISTICS

PROPOSED BOARD ACTION

Request for approval to terminate the Master of Arts/Master of Arts Teaching in French (16.0901), Master of Arts/Master of Arts Teaching in Spanish (16.0905), Master of Arts in Comparative Literature (16.0102), and Master of Arts in Linguistics (16.0102) to roll up into the Master of Arts in Language, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature (16.9999).

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The Department of Languages, Linguistics and Comparative Literature currently offers graduate degree programs in French, Spanish, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature. Continual low degree productivity at the masters' level has prompted the department to re-examine their degree offerings. The Department of Languages, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature will roll all of the current stand-alone Master's degrees into a single degree program with six different concentrations. The single degree program will be called a Master of Arts in Language, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature (16.9999).

IMPLEMENTATION PLAN/DATE

The termination of the individual degree programs and the roll up into the new Master of Arts in Languages, Linguistics and Comparative Literature will be effective Fall 2016. Students will be notified of a teach-out plan and expected to finish by Spring 2018.

FISCAL IMPLICATIONS

The courses required in the umbrella degree program are the same courses required in the individual degree programs. Therefore, the loss of the individual degree programs will not result in a loss in faculty, courses or other resources.

- 2. Indicate on which campus(es) the program is being offered and the extent to which the proposed termination has had or will have an impact on enrollment, enrollment planning, and/or the reallocation of resources.

The program is offered only on the Boca Raton campus. We anticipate that enrollment will remain strong, and since all of our current masters' degrees will be combined, we anticipate that overall enrollment will increase. The new degree does not require changes in the delivery of courses, nor enrollment planning, nor any reallocation of resources.

- 3. Provide an explanation of the manner in which the University intends to accommodate any students or faculty who are currently active in the program scheduled to be terminated. State what steps have been taken to inform students and faculty of the intent to terminate the program?

The faculty in the Department of Languages, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature voted to roll up our current masters' degrees into the single MA in Languages, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature. The termination of this degree and the roll up will not affect faculty. The rollup of all of our masters' degrees will happen seamlessly for all students currently in our masters' program. As the department has continued to admit new students into our current programs, in the letter of acceptance the students were told that if they do not complete the degree to which they applied prior to fall 2018, they will automatically be migrated to the new degree. All of the full-time students already admitted for fall 2016 should graduate prior to fall 2018. We have a small number of part-time students who may be migrated to the new degree, but all are aware that the change will be seamless for them.

- 4. Provide data (and cite source) on the gender and racial distribution of students and faculty. For faculty also list the rank and tenure status of all affected individuals.

None of the faculty will be affected by the termination of this degree. All faculty are tenured unless indicated as untenured by (UT).

The Department of Languages, Linguistics and Comparative Literature currently offers graduate degree programs in French, Spanish, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature. Continual low degree productivity at the masters' level has prompted the department to re-examine their degree offerings. The Department of Languages, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature will roll all of the current stand-alone Master's degrees into a single degree program with six different concentrations. The single degree program will be called a Master of Arts in Language, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature (16.9999).

- 2. Indicate on which campus(es) the program is being offered and the extent to which the proposed termination has had or will have an impact on enrollment, enrollment planning, and/or the reallocation of resources.

The program is offered only on the Boca Raton campus. We anticipate that enrollment will remain strong, and since all of our current masters' degrees will be combined, we anticipate that overall enrollment will increase. The new degree does not require changes in the delivery of courses, nor enrollment planning, nor any reallocation of resources.

- 3. Provide an explanation of the manner in which the University intends to accommodate any students or faculty who are currently active in the program scheduled to be terminated. State what steps have been taken to inform students and faculty of the intent to terminate the program?

The faculty in the Department of Languages, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature voted to roll up our current masters' degrees into the single MA in Languages, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature. The termination of this degree and the roll up will not affect faculty. The rollup of all of our masters' degrees will happen seamlessly for all students currently in our masters' program. As the department has continued to admit new students into our current programs, in the letter of acceptance the students were told that if they do not complete the degree to which they applied prior to fall 2018, they will automatically be migrated to the new degree. All of the full-time students already admitted for fall 2016 should graduate prior to fall 2018. We have a small number of part-time students who may be migrated to the new degree, but all are aware that the change will be seamless for them.

- 4. Provide data (and cite source) on the gender and racial distribution of students and faculty. For faculty also list the rank and tenure status of all affected individuals.

None of the faculty will be affected by the termination of this degree. All faculty are tenured unless indicated as untenured by (UT).

COMMITTEE ON ACADEMIC AND STUDENT AFFAIRS

Tuesday, May 17, 2016

SUBJECT: REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF TERMINATION OF THE MASTER OF ARTS/MASTER OF ARTS TEACHING IN FRENCH AND SPANISH, MASTER OF ARTS IN COMPARATIVE LITERATURE, AND MASTER OF ARTS IN LINGUISTICS.

PROPOSED BOARD ACTION

Request for approval to terminate the Master of Arts/Master of Arts Teaching in French (16.0901), Master of Arts/Master of Arts Teaching in Spanish (16.0905), Master of Arts in Comparative Literature (16.0102), and Master of Arts in Linguistics (16.0102) to roll up into the Master of Arts in Language, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature (16.9999).

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The Department of Languages, Linguistics and Comparative Literature currently offers graduate degree programs in French, Spanish, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature. Continual low degree productivity at the masters' level has prompted the department to re-examine their degree offerings. The Department of Languages, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature will roll all of the current stand-alone Master's degrees into a single degree program with six different concentrations. The single degree program will be called a Master of Arts in Language, Linguistics, and Comparative Literature (16.9999).

IMPLEMENTATION PLAN/DATE

The termination of the individual degree programs and the roll up into the new Master of Arts in Languages, Linguistics and Comparative Literature will be effective Fall 2016. Students will be notified of a teach-out plan and expected to finish by Spring 2018.

FISCAL IMPLICATIONS

The courses required in the umbrella degree program are the same courses required in the individual degree programs. Therefore, the loss of the individual degree programs will not result in a loss in faculty, courses or other resources.
