FY24 Q1 REVENUES

---

Financial Affairs opens FY24 by reporting the first quarter revenue performance of actual activity against each respective funds' budget.

FY24 Q1 REVENUES BUDGET TO ACTUALS

(In Millions)

The disparity in Contracts & Grants revenue can be attributed largely to an additional $7.3M of HEERF funds realized in FY23 collected to reinvest into our students through tuition assistance.

FAU's E&G performance in Q1 this year outperformed the same period last year by $18.2 million, primarily attributable to a robust fall enrollment and heightened state appropriations.

Overall, FAU observed a notable $10.3M year-over-year increase in revenues across all funds during Q1.

FY24 Q1 REVENUES

FALL TUITION HISTORICAL TREND

(In Millions)

Tuition ● Waivers ●

Strong performance in tuition during the fall semester kickstarted FY24 on a positive note, contributing to the increase in E&G revenues.

Fall revenue has witnessed an upward trajectory over the last five years, reflecting a gain of 20.5%. Notably, year-over-year, fall revenue has surged by 14.0%. This growth can be attributed to the overall expansion of credit hours and a higher proportion of out-of-state students in the mix.

Total Year End Tuition Revenue Including Student Fees, Tuition Differential, Excludes College of Medicine

FY24 Q1 REVENUES

FALL TUITION ANALYSIS – DEMOGRAPHICS
(In Millions)

Over the last five fall semesters, resident tuition has seen a 3.5% increase. However, non-resident tuition revenue has experienced a 70.9% increase.

This growth is evident in FY24 tuition, with non-resident undergraduates accounting for 44.3% of total undergraduate tuition, and non-resident graduate students contributing 33.5% to total graduate tuition.

FY24 Q1 AUXILIARY REVENUES

As an additional key area of revenue growth, FAU's auxiliary enterprises have consistently demonstrated growth in the first quarter across various units. Notably, the College of Business executive degree programs have played a significant role, contributing 20% of all first-quarter auxiliary revenue.

↑ 1.3M Revenue increase in College of Business executive degree programs

↑ 2.4% Year-over-year increase against the budget

↑ 7.0M 5-year revenue increase

FY24 Q1 EXPENSES

Financial Affairs continues FY24 by reporting the first quarter expense performance of actual activity against each respective funds' budget.

FY24 Q1 EXPENSES BUDGET TO ACTUALS

(In Millions)

The spending rate across all funds has remained relatively flat year-over-year.

The 1.5% reduction in E&G spend rate can be attributed to an increase of 55.7 million dollars in the board approved E&G budget. Other larger budgetary items are scheduled to be expended later in the fiscal year resulting in a normalization of the spend rate.

Overall, FAU observed a notable $14.9M year-over-year increase in expenses across all funds during Q1.

FY24 Q1 ACTUAL EXPENSE GROWTH ACROSS THE UNIVERSITY

YEAR-OVER-YEAR

 8.0M

EDUCATION &
GENERAL

As observed prior, E&G spend rate has slowed against the budget. However actual expenditures have increased by $8.0M. This increase in expenditures is attributable to a boost in human capital expenses and increased utilities costs. Additionally, FAU has invested in IT supplies and increased tuition waivers and fee exemptions to support student success.

 2.0M

STUDENT FINANCIAL AID

Student financial aid expenses have increased by $2.0M, reflecting our ongoing commitment to providing substantial support through a wide array of scholarships, including those for FAU Presidential Scholars, the FAU Honors College, the College of Medicine, and many others.

 2.1M

AUXILIARY ENTERPRISES

Auxiliary expenses have risen by $2.1M. This growth is a result of increased investments in key areas, including the Center for eLearning, the expansion of graduate medical education to support psychiatry and neurology residency programs, and enhancements to the Boca Raton recreational facilities.
