Salango, Ecuador
Fieldwork in Coastal Ecuador
FAU Faculty-led Program
Summer: June 23 – August 5, 2018

Participate in either an ethnographic or archaeological fieldwork project with the opportunity to learn about life in a coastal Ecuadorian village. Ethnographic fieldwork students can focus their studies on topics such as agriculture, women’s roles, health and disease, nutrition, fishing, religion, and more. Archaeological fieldwork takes place in a cloud forest environment and participants gain experience in excavation and survey techniques as well as basic human remains analysis. The archaeological project aims to understand South American adaptations to coastal environments from the prehistoric past to the present.

Eligibility and Requirements:
• Overall GPA of 2.5 or higher for undergraduate and 3.0 or higher for graduate.
• Open to all majors. Permission from the Department of Anthropology needed.

Course Offerings:
• ANT 4802: Ethnographic Fieldwork (3-6 credits) Graduate credit available
• ANT 4824: Field Methods in Archaeology (3-6 credits) Graduate credit available

Program Highlights:
• Put methods & theories into practice while collaborating with others in the field, focusing on topics meaningful to the local community & development efforts.
• Participate in a long-term faculty-led research project with a 20 year history.

Application Deadline: Thursday, March 15, 2018 (with $200 administrative fee)

Program Costs: $3,322.00
• 1st payment of $1,661.00 due: April 12, 2018
• 2nd payment of $1,661.00 due: May 3, 2018

Included:
• Lodging, all meals, and group excursions
• Some field equipment, most on ground transportation & CISI health insurance

Not Included: FAU tuition (in state/out of state rates apply), airfare, and personal spending money.

For Additional Information:
Faculty-leader: Dr. Michael Harris, Dept. of Anthropology, mharris@fau.edu
Study Abroad Advisor: Madison McShane, Education Abroad, mmcshane@fau.edu

Visit www.fau.edu/anthro/eschool.php for additional program details & www.fau.edu/goabroad for online application.

Florida Atlantic University reserves the right to make changes with or without notice. Florida Atlantic University reserves the right to cancel a program due to low enrollment. No program substitutions are allowed.