Revisiting the Jazz Age

Nancy F. Cott
Harvard University

November 8, 2007
2 P.M.

Live Oak Pavilion,
Boca Raton Campus,
Florida Atlantic University

Taking a new look at the “flaming youth” of the 1920’s, Nancy Cott considers what is distinctive about this generation, with emphasis on their cultural and sexual modernism and their practice of “modern marriage.”

Nancy F. Cott is a leading scholar of American women’s history and the Jonathan Trumbull Professor of American History at Harvard University. Her most recent book is Public Vows: A History of Marriage and the Nation.

For information, please call the History Symposium Series at 561.297.2764