FAU Nursing Program to Host Community Health Fair

Family nurse practitioner (FNP) students enrolled in Florida Atlantic University’s Christine E. Lynn College of Nursing will host a community health fair on Thursday, March 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the MP building, room 106 at the Treasure Coast campus in St. Lucie West. FNP students and nursing faculty will offer a variety of health screenings, including blood pressure, body mass index and blood sugar. Information on how to check for skin cancer, read food nutritional labels and do a self-breast exam will also be available. Information booths will display information and literature on brain health, cardiac health, breast health, skin health, hearing, nutrition, medication counseling, CPR, advance directives/living wills and more. Faculty and students will also create laminated wallet cards listing all medications. Please bring a list of medications for this service.
