WHEREAS: The annual Juried Student Exhibition has occurred for the last 15 years plus every spring. Any and all students may submit works for selection by an outside professional artist/juror. Primarily visual arts majors (of which there are circa 1,000) submit up to three works. The final exhibition includes 50-70 works selected by the juror, and;

WHEREAS: This experience will assist with career development and experience with submitting work and being judged by a professional, and;

WHEREAS: Until 2008/09 the University Galleries received unrestrictive funding from student government for ALL programming based on: student employment (career related) provided in Galleries; strong exhibition programs benefiting art students and general student population; notice and notoriety in local/regional press. Not unlike the Football team brings notice to FAU, the strength of the Galleries’ programs brings attention among the public interested in culture and/or the arts. Last year the Galleries only receive funding for the Student Juried exhibitions. This annual exhibition will not occur without Student Government funding, and;

WHEREAS: If funding is received, the University Galleries has agreed to include Student Government’s co-sponsorship on all advertisements for the event and to be announced during the opening reception of the event that commonly attracts 200+ students.
