A fuller accounting of this year’s scholarly accomplishments may be found in the Faculty News section of the newsletter. Faculty research, of course, informs and enriches the classroom experience for FAU’s students. With the university welcoming the largest incoming class in school history for the 2023-24 academic year, demand for the department’s survey courses was at an all-time high. In the Fall 2023 semester, the department filled nearly 1,000 seats in the American History survey, and over 500 seats in the History of Civilization sequence, while maintaining its robust selection of upper-division and graduate courses. Demand for these courses showed no sign of abating in Spring 2024. The reputation of the History faculty for teaching excellence, meanwhile, continues to attract many students to the major, and graduate enrollments also remain strong. The department is fortunate to be able to offer financial assistance to many of its students thanks to the generosity of its donors, the Dorothy F. Schmidt College of Arts and Letters, and the Graduate College. In the past academic year, the department’s Awards Committee and its Graduate Committee disbursed over $20,000 in merit scholarships to deserving students.

The faculty also remained committed to serving the university and wider community through an active schedule of public programming. In February, the department hosted former first lady Laura Bush and her daughter Barbara Pierce Bush for the annual Alan B. and Charna Larkin Symposium on the American Presidency.
In October, Alexander Keyssar, the Matthew W. Stirling Jr. Professor of History and Social Policy at Harvard University, delivered the John O’Sullivan Memorial Lecture on “The Right to Vote: The Contested History of Democracy in the United States.” The following month, the department welcomed Dave Zirin of The Nation for the second annual Avron B. Fogelman Sports Museum Lecture, and less than a week later brought Jay Stout, Lt Col (Ret) USMC, to campus for the Harold L. Glasser Memorial Lecture. The year was capped off by a visit to campus from former president George W. Bush, which was co-hosted by the Larkin Symposium.

History sponsored a number of other events throughout the year, some of which are highlighted elsewhere in this newsletter.

In a department defined by its collegiality as well as its academic excellence, the History faculty welcomed a number of new colleagues for the Fall 2023 semester. Michael Lovell joined the department as a postdoctoral fellow in ancient and medieval European history, having recently completed his Ph.D. at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville. While teaching courses in his area of specialization, Dr. Lovell is also hard at work on his book manuscript, which examines debates on religious toleration in early medieval Europe. Tiffany Wayne, who earned her Ph.D. at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville, was appointed visiting instructor in American History. Dr. Wayne has authored or edited some eight books on such topics as the nineteenth amendment to the U.S. constitution, American women in the sciences, and transcendentalism. In the department office, Carla Bonfanti started work as the new program assistant after moving to South Florida from New Jersey.

I invite you to read over the newsletter, which highlights the many accomplishments of History students and faculty. I am certain that you will come away from your perusal impressed by the vibrancy of the department. I know I speak for my colleagues when I say that we look forward to another exceptional year in 2024.

Message from the Undergraduate Director

During the 2022-23 academic year our 200 undergraduate History majors have continued to impress us with their interests in the pursuit of History and their diligence. While we continue to develop courses to meet their needs and schedules – including online offerings – we strive to maintain the highest of standards for content and assessment. This has allowed us to become “more flexible” in our offerings during the Fall, Spring, and Summer terms as we know that the world is continuing to adjust to a blend of the in-person and virtual arenas. After reviewing our program’s offerings and reviewing the needs of our students, the department decided to change our reviewing our program’s offerings and reviewing the needs to adjust to a blend of the in-person and virtual arenas. After years we have developed close relationships with many of organizations in South Florida, gaining skills in organization and historical communication while making important connections to the community within and beyond FAU. Many intern in FAU Libraries’ own Special Collections, working with Victoria Thur.

This year I had the pleasure of filling in as Director of Graduate Studies while Dr. Finucane was away on leave. It was a new challenge for me, one I found very rewarding. I had the pleasure of guiding a ship that was already well underway with a large cohort in the middle of their studies. We had only a few graduations this year. We did, however, welcome some very talented students to the program.

The program offers a thesis track in which students develop a substantial original project based in primary sources that contributes to the historical literature. This is a challenging, multi-semester undertaking. In 2023, John Nall completed his thesis, a comparative study of World War II Allied air force units staffed by women pilots, overseen by Dr. Barbara Ganson *’p.6). Graduate students from the Department of History intern at a variety of organizations in South Florida, gaining skills in organization and historical communication while making important connections to the community within and beyond FAU. Many intern in FAU Libraries’ own Special Collections, working with Victoria Thur.

In April, the department gathered and recognized the outstanding work done by our graduate students. In 2023, the department honored Anson Shurr with the Martin and Sylvia Shaw Graduate History Scholarship and the France Edelman Graduate Teaching Award. Jeremy Weber received the Harold L. Glasser Memorial Award to support research in the Harold L. Glasser Collection in the FAU Libraries’ Special Collections. Philip Przaz, meanwhile, received the John O’Sullivan Travel-to-Research Grant in support of his thesis project. Regina Gallo received the Traci Jill Edelman Memorial Award for the Best M.A. Thesis for “Slavers and Slaves: Authority, Mutiny, and the Politics of Suppression,” which she defended in 2022. If you are a graduate of the M.A. program, we would love to hear from you! Please share your good news or update your contact information by emailing Dr. Finucane (afinucane@fau.edu).

History Internships
FAU students continue to sign up for internship opportunities at local Museums and Archives.

This past year students have worked with the Palm Beach Historical Society, the Boca Raton Historical Society, the Duh Dale Schoolhouse Museum, the Archaeological Conservancy, and FAU Special Collections. Each gives students an opportunity to work under the direction of a true professional, and to offer their services to the sponsoring location. Over the years we have developed close relationships with many area museums. We already have a number enrolled for the spring, and are in talks for the summer.

Master of Arts in History
Message from the Interim Graduate Director

Graduates of FAU’s M.A. program in History have gone on to pursue successful careers in teaching, business, law and a variety of other fields. The Master of Arts in History has both a thesis and a non-thesis option. The thesis option requires 30 credit hours, with a minimum of 24 hours of graduate course work and the completion of an M.A. thesis, for which a minimum of six additional credits must be earned. The non-thesis option requires a total of 36 credit hours of graduate course work. Those students wishing to pursue the thesis track must submit an “Admission to Candidacy” form after the completion of 18 hours of graduate work. Once students are granted thesis option status, they work in conjunction with the Director of Graduate Studies to create a thesis committee. A student seeking admission into the graduate program in History should have a bachelor’s degree or equivalent from an accredited institution, or for international students, an institution recognized in his/her own country as preparing students for further study at the graduate level. Applicants must have a minimum 3.0 grade point average (GPA) for the last 60 undergraduate hours. The GRE requirement has been waived permanently. In addition, the students must submit two letters of recommendation to the department, a three-page typed, double-spaced autobiographical statement indicating the nature of their preparation for graduate work and the reason for seeking the M.A. in History, and a formal research paper. For information contact the Graduate Director, Dr. Adrian Finucane by email at afinucane@fau.edu.

Where Are They Now?

Sara Feinman published “Freedom Awaits by Sea: Exploring the ‘Saltwater Railroad’ of Key Biscayne to the Bahamas” in Tequesta.

Sara Clark has begun her graduate studies in History and Political Science at the State University of New York at Albany.

Daniel Ruiz is working on his Ph.D. under the direction of Heather Cox Richardson at Boston College.

History Graduate Student's Awarded Scholarships

THE SIDNEY A. GOODMAN GRADUATE STIPEND ENHANCEMENT

In honor of Sid's commitment to education his family has established the Sidney A. Goodman Graduate Stipend Enhancement. Their gift will provide a mentorious incoming graduate student who also serves as a Graduate Teaching Assistant with a stipend enhancement of $1,000 per year for up to two academic years.

Elias Polychronopoulos is in his second year as the recipient of the Sidney A. Goodman Graduate Stipend Enhancement. Elias received his B.A. from FAU before joining the graduate program. He is pursuing studies in 19th century European history and plans to teach after graduation.

The GTAs perform a tremendous service for FAU, the History Department, and the hundreds of undergraduates who take lower-division World History and American History surveys each year. The department thanks the Goodman family for recognizing the financial need and rising to the occasion to help meet it, in the same spirit as Sid Goodman wanted to be a friend and mentor to his fellow students.

GRADUATE DEAN’S FELLOWSHIP

The Graduate Dean’s Fellowship is a $2,500 fellowship that provides additional funding to supplement the stipend and tuition waiver.

Ellis Hall is this year’s recipient of the Graduate Dean’s Fellowship. Ellis graduated from Northumbria University, which is in Newcastle-upon-Tyne in the north of England. While she finished her B.A. in History there, she did a Study Abroad year at FAU. Unfortunately, it was abroad in name only since it took place during the pandemic! Fortunately for us, she is here now and working on her M.A., focusing on modern American history.

DOROTHY F. SCHMIDT COLLEGE OF ARTS & LETTERS DEAN’S FELLOWSHIP

The general scholarship consists of $1,500 per semester in addition to the departmental stipend.

Roger Shermann is this year’s recipient of the award. Roger earned his B.A. in History from FAU and transitioned directly into the graduate program.

LARKIN FELLOW

Each year, the director of the Larkin Symposium series works with the department’s Graduate Director and Chair to select a graduate student to serve as the Alan B. and Charna Larkin Fellow. The Larkin Fellow assists the director with the organization of the annual Larkin Symposium, hosted by the Department of History every Spring semester. The Fellow typically works about 5 hours per week (slightly more as the event approaches, and fewer hours after the event). The duties of the Larkin Fellow include: contacting area high schools to invite teachers and students, handling book orders for the incoming speaker, helping to arrange a book signing, organizing volunteers for the event, and miscellaneous campus - and web-related activities, as necessary. The fellowship consists of a $2,000 stipend.

Christine McDonough continues to serve in this role this year.

Christine completed an Associate’s Degree in Liberal Arts with a focus on mathematics at Suffolk County Community College before receiving her B.A. in History from FAU in 2022 with a minor in French. She is interested in public history and local history and works on collections and education programs at Old Davie School Historical Museum and as an intern in the collections of the Boca Historical Society.

The general scholarship consists of $1,500 per semester in addition to the departmental stipend.

Letters Dean’s Fellowship

The Letters Dean’s Fellowship is a $2,000 stipend.

John Nall is this year’s recipient of the award. John earned his B.A. in History from FAU and transitioned directly into the graduate program.

John O’Sullivan Memorial Lecture

In honor of John O’Sullivan, the Matthew W. Stirling Jr. Professor of History and Social Policy at Harvard University, for the 2023 John O’Sullivan Memorial Lecture on October 7, Dr. Keyssar offered a sweeping overview of the history of the right to vote throughout American history. Dr. Evan Bennett, Associate Professor of History at FAU, conducted a question-and-answer session that featured queries from students. Students brought their copies of Dr. Keyssar’s book, The Right to Vote: The Contested History of Democracy in the United States and approached him for signatures and selfies after the lecture.

The lectureship was created by a group of auditors, led by Joe Friedman, to honor the memory of Professor John O’Sullivan. Dr. O’Sullivan was a cherished member of the History Department. The program brings a distinguished scholar of twentieth-century U.S. history to FAU for students, faculty, and – appropriately – members of the public to gain a new perspective on some aspect of modern America.

M.A. Thesis Abstract

Flying with Wings of Determination: British, Soviet, and American Women Pilots during World War II

JOHN NALL

This thesis is an international comparative analysis on the women pilots of Britain’s Air Transport Auxiliary, the Soviet Union’s Aviation Group 122, and the United States’ Women’s Auxiliary Air Force, Women’s Flying Training Detachment, and the Women Airforce Service Pilots during World War II. Women pilots in these groups were motivated by three different factors in each country to aid the war effort and that determination was a common thread among these groups that drove them to serve their countries’ militaries. What made the pilots’ efforts stand out was that they offered the Allies an advantage over the Axis Powers in terms of utilizing an additional workforce. Unfortunately, these women are widely unrecognized for this advantage and are brushed aside. It is important to recognize the significance of how these women impacted the Allies socially and militarily, and this work aims to expand the discussion in World War II studies.
On the second day, other speakers discussed FDR’s knowledge of the Holocaust, his government’s involvement with resettling refugees, and private organizations’ efforts to resettle them. Another group of scholars will speak on U.S. presidents’ involvement with the founding of the State of Israel, the Eichmann trial, the Yom Kippur War of 1973, and more recent developments.

Dr. Patricia Kollander, Professor of History at FAU, led the conference and served as the editor of a book of essays contributed by the participants. Previous conferences have produced the following books, which are available from the University Press of Florida:

- Selling War in a Media Age: The Presidency and Public Opinion in the American Century (2010)
- Civil Rights and the Presidency: From Nixon to Obama (2012)
- Winning While Losing: Civil Rights, the Conservative Movement, and the Presidency from Nixon to Obama (2017)
- The President and American Capitalism since 1945 (2017)
- Political Thought and the Origins of the American Presidency (2021)

Dr. Stephen Engle built and led the History Department’s Symposium Series for more than eighteen years, but the Provost’s office noticed his talents and tapped him to serve as Associate Provost for Faculty Affairs. Dr. Jason Sharples, Associate Professor of History, has taken over as the Interim Director of the History Symposium Series.

Meanwhile, construction continues on the new Presidential Study at FAU’s S.E. Wimberly Library. The study will house a collection of signed presidential letters, from Washington to Biden, and will provide space for students and scholars to examine the American Presidency.

The Symposium is made possible through the generosity of the Larkin family, which established an endowment in 2004 to support the study of the American presidency at FAU.
Laura Bush was born in Midland, Texas in 1946. Her mother, Jenna Welch, instilled in her at a young age the importance of reading and education. This inspired her to become a second-grade teacher and later, a librarian. It was in her early life that she met George W. Bush, but it was not until after college, when she returned home for the summer, that the two formally met. The couple married three months after their first date. Laura recalled that she “just knew” they were meant to be. A few years later, they welcomed their twin daughters, Barbara and Jenna. Named after their grandmothers, Laura joked that she had misnamed the girls, as Barbara was more similar to her maternal grandmother Jenna. As family was of the utmost importance, Laura remembered the Bush family as “very welcoming.” Family trips to the “big house” in Maine contained fond memories for Barbara, who reminisced on the “Rules of the House” and the incredibly important summer reading. Despite being the 41st president, Barbara remembers George H.W. Bush as a “humble and present” grandfather. She looked back on the election of her grandmother, remarking in a first-grade diary entry that she never realized that “not everyone’s grandpa gets a parade.”

When George W. Bush ran for president, Laura reflected on the crucial guidance from her mother-in-law, and fellow former First Lady Barbara Bush: “Don’t criticize his speeches,” she advised. Once in the White House, Laura received advice from another former First Lady, Hillary Clinton: “Don’t miss an opportunity.” Laura made sure to consider the words of these women as she navigated the sometimes-difficult terrain that accompanied the presidency.

Probably the biggest difficulty Laura and her family faced were the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001. Laura was on the way to an event when she received the news of the first plane crash. The Secret Service quickly transported Laura to an underground bunker and Barbara to an undisclosed location where she remained for the day. In the aftermath of the attacks, she considered the actions of other presidents and the strength they showed to the American people. She decided she would write a letter to the children of the country about the “bad people” in the world. The 9/11 attacks changed Laura’s perception of her role as First Lady. Both questions from reporters and meetings with the families of those who had lost loved ones made Laura see the “great unity” of the American people.

Following her time as First Lady, and inspired by her life experiences, Laura continued her advocacy in education, literacy, women’s rights and the environment. She organized and opened the George W. Bush Presidential Library and also participated in PEPFAR’s (U.S. President’s Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief) 20th Anniversary in Africa. She is currently deeply involved in conservation efforts across Texas. Inspired by former First Lady, Ladybird Johnson, Laura devoted several acres of her home, Crawford Ranch, to restore the native prairies of Texas by planting native plants. Additionally, she started a “Lights Out” Program, that asks high rise buildings to dim their lights during bird migration to prevent accidental death to birds - a great interest of her mother.

Barbara Pierce Bush is an Executive-in-Residence at Schmidt Futures, where she supports racial justice and global health. She also co-founded and serves as Board Chair of Global Health Futures, where she supports racial justice and global health.

Stephanie Bush is involved in conservation efforts across Texas. Inspired by former First Lady, Ladybird Johnson, Laura devoted several acres of her home, Crawford Ranch, to restore the native prairies of Texas by planting native plants. Additionally, she started a “Lights Out” Program, that asks high rise buildings to dim their lights during bird migration to prevent accidental death to birds - a great interest of her mother.

Dr. Timothy Naftali is a Senior Research Scholar at the Institute of Global Politics at the Columbia University School of International and Public Affairs, and a CNN presidential historian.

The symposium aims to keep Alan Larkin’s passion for history alive by exploring the role of the presidency in shaping political, cultural, and social developments in American life.
An ongoing partnership between the History Department and the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of Florida continues to fund the research of scholars who are writing new books on the history of the American colonial period (1565-1775).

The “Society of Colonial Wars Fellowship in Memory of Kenneth R. LaVoy Jr.” is a way to honor the legacy of a beloved member of the organization. The primary recipients are scholars who are completing books to be published by the University of Pennsylvania Press, a leader in the field that produces works that regularly win national awards. The fellowship also supports the research of FAU’s scholars of the colonial period in America.

The 2023 recipient of the Fellowship was Dr. Adrian Weimer, Professor of History at Providence College, who used the award to support the final stages of producing the book A Constitutional Culture: New England and the Struggle Against Arbitrary Rule in the Restoration Empire. This history of 17th-century New England illustrates how colonists used community rituals, such as fast days, and public statements such as debates and petitions to push back against Charles II and assert their right to religious liberty and self-government. Professor Weimer presented her research to the public via Zoom webinar on January 25, 2024.

In recent years, the program has resulted in the publication of two other books and contributed to progress on a third book-in-progress.

- Misha Ewen, Curator and Historian at Historical Royal Palaces (UK), wrote “The Virginia Venture: American Colonization and English Society, 1580-1660.”
- Mairin Odle, Associate Professor of American Studies at the University of Alabama, wrote “Under the Skin: Tattoos, Scars, and the Contested Language of Bodies in Early America.”
- Nicholas Wood, Assistant Professor of History at Spring Hill College (Alabama), is still at work on his book manuscript. He presented his interim findings at the FAU Library as “Colonial Wars as the ‘Wrath of God’. The Origins of American Antislavery.”

The work of scholars supported by this fellowship highlights that America’s foundation began well over 150 years earlier than the Declaration of Independence or the U.S. Constitution.

FAU-Huntington Collaborative Fellowship

The History Department and the Library are preparing to welcome a new group of fellows in October 2024 through the FAU-Huntington Collaborative Short-Term Fellowship. The program was on hiatus in 2023. The Collaborative Fellowship brings three doctoral students to Boca Raton to do research in the Marvin and Sybil Weiner Spirit of America Collection. For the month of October, the three scholars form a community by working side-by-side at the FAU Libraries’ Special Collections on individual dissertation projects that benefit from sustained research in the Collection.

In 2022, scholars from the College of William and Mary, Yale University, and the University of Missouri examined gender violence, the political economy of sugar, and the history of collecting natural specimens for scientific study.

- Misha Ewen, Curator and Historian at Historical Royal Palaces (UK), wrote “The Virginia Venture: American Colonization and English Society, 1580-1660.”
- Mairin Odle, Associate Professor of American Studies at the University of Alabama, wrote “Under the Skin: Tattoos, Scars, and the Contested Language of Bodies in Early America.”
- Nicholas Wood, Assistant Professor of History at Spring Hill College (Alabama), is still at work on his book manuscript. He presented his interim findings at the FAU Library as “Colonial Wars as the ‘Wrath of God’. The Origins of American Antislavery.”

The work of scholars supported by this fellowship highlights that America’s foundation began well over 150 years earlier than the Declaration of Independence or the U.S. Constitution.

On November 2, 2023, sportswriter Dave Zirin gave the second annual Fogelman Sports Museum at the Owl’s Nest near FAU Stadium. Zirin, sports editor at The Nation and author of numerous books that explore the intersections of race, politics, and sports, spoke on “Resistance from the Playing Field: How Sports Can Be a Powerful Force for Social Change.” Dr. Jermaine Scott organized the event in consultation with the Avron B. Fogelman Museum, one of the largest private sports libraries in the world, which is housed in the Schmidt Family Complex.

The Avron B. Fogelman Museum offers visitors a visual progression of American sports alongside vignettes of the country’s growth, providing historical context, opportunities for intergenerational connections and unique storytelling. The 3,700 square-foot exhibit house 1,200 pieces of memorabilia from baseball, basketball, football and more! For hours and information, visit: fau.edu/fogelmanmuseum

Evan P. Bennett, Ph.D. is awaiting the publication of Tampa Bay: The Story of an Estuary and Its People, which will be available from the University Press of Florida in April 2024. He also continues to work on his Mellon Foundation grant-funded project, “Voting Rights History as Civic Literacy.” He served as the department’s interim director of graduate studies in 2023. To celebrate World Water Day on March 22, 2023, he organized a lecture by journalist and author Cynthia Barnett, where she spoke on her most recent book, The Sound of the Sea: Seashells and the Fate of the Oceans.

Candace Cunningham, Ph.D., is almost finished with her book, “I Hope They Fire Me”: Black Teachers in the Fight for Equal Education, which is on the role of Black teachers in the civil rights movement. She published multiple pieces in Black Perspectives, including “HBUCs and the Red Scare,” “Black Capitalism, Underground Economies, and the Great Depression,” “John Potts and Radical Student Activism,” and “Police Violence Against Black WWII Veterans.” She gave a paper, “Military Propaganda: Bannning Resistance Pedagogy in Washington, D.C.’s Public Schools,” at the Association for the Study of African American Life and History Annual Conference in Jacksonville, Florida. She has also published public speaking engagements at Colby College, the African American Research Library and Cultural Center, the Boca Raton Public Library, and the Boca Raton Historical Society. She also organized a Zoom lecture by historian Sonya Ramsey, who spoke about her most recent book, BIRTH Maxwell-Roddy: A Modern Day Race Woman and the Power of Black Leadership.

Stephen Engle, Ph.D., published *In Pursuit of Justice: The Life of John Albion Andrews with the University of Massachusetts Press. He is working on an essay entitled “A White Man Hangs for Black Freedom: John Brown’s Execution and the Pursuit of Racial Justice,” which seeks to center Brown’s execution as the central event in propelling Americans to reckon with its racist culture in the 19th century. It explores the emerging tensions surrounding the execution of Brown (as opposed to a life sentence), which forced Americans to grapple with the racism (and slavery) that was so central to America’s character. He gave two Zoom lectures for the Smithsonian Institution’s Associates Program. In September, he delivered “The Myth of the Lost Cause,” in November, he spoke on “The Age of Jacksonian Democracy.” He also continues to serve at the university’s faculty representative to the NCAA and has been appointed Associate Provost for Academic Personnel.

Adrian Finucane, Ph.D., spent 2023 on leave working on her book Captive Exchanges: Prisoners of War and the Trade in Secrets, 1700–1760. She used her National Endowment for the Humanities Award for Faculty at Hispanic-Serving Institutions to do research at archives in the United Kingdom and Spain.

Eric J. Hanne, Ph.D., continued to remain busy as Director of Undergraduate Programs for the Department of History and as Treasurer of the Middle East Medievalists (MEM). In addition to overseeing a change in the departmental curriculum for undergraduates, advising majors, and attending sundry recruitment events he also took on the duties as Chair of the Dorothy F. Schmidt College Undergraduate Programs committee. He was happy to see his book chapter, “Sikka Dened: A Numismatic Appraisal of al-Qādir bi’llah’s Reception” come out in print via Brill this year as part of a festschrift for his late adviser Michael Bonner, Islam on the Margins: Studies in Honor of Michael Bonner (Brill, 2023). He presented a portion of his ongoing book research on the Mayazidids at the International Medieval Congress at Leeds, “Using every tool at his disposal? Dunya b. Sadag’s Guide to 12th-Century Networking,” in July 2023. He is planning on continuing his efforts in the coming year: “Contestualizing the Origins of a Rebellious Dynasty: ‘Ali b. Mayzad (d. 961-1017)” has recently been accepted for the IMC Leeds meeting in 2024.

Kenneth W. Holloway, Ph.D., is pleased to announce that his edited volume Buddhism and the Body was published by Brill in August 2023. This project began with a conference entitled Bodies of Buddhism: Somaesthetic Explorations in February 2020 at FAU. The volume spans a wide range of topics including Mahayana, Theravada, ancient, and modern. Even at the most basic level, the diversity of Buddhism makes a comprehensive approach daunting.
A Companion to the Second World War with Wiley-Blackwell Publishing, accepted for publication in 2024. She will also be editing the conference volume of the 2023 Larkin Symposium entitled: “The U.S. Presidency, the Holocaust and the State of Israel.” She submitted a book proposal for her manuscript, “From Immigration to Liberation: German and Austrian Emigres in the U.S. Army during World War II,” to the University Press of Kansas. In January 2023, she began a two-year term as Provost Fellow for Academic and Administrative Affairs. In this position, she promotes programs that enhance faculty teaching and research. DOUG McGETCHIN, PH.D., is working to complete his book manuscript “The Boycott or the Bullet: A Global History of Debates over Nonviolence since 1850,” now under contract with Routledge, due in 2025. He presented a paper “Gandhi the ‘Bolshevik’: Nonviolence and Socialist Revisions,” at the Southeast Conference of the Association for Asian Studies held at the University of Richmond. With Jupiter colleagues he is on the Center for Peace, Justice, and Human Rights working group on Religion, Spirituality, and Human Rights. He was a panelist with film promoter Richard Salomon for the Boca Raton screening of “The Devil’s Confession: The Lost Eichmann Tapes” (2023) at The Studio at Mizner Park. MARK ROSE, PH.D., continued his work with Dr. Roger Biles on the politics of downtown renewal projects. Together they published “A President Visits East St. Louis: The Racialized Politics of Market Talk, Enterprise Zones, and Abandonment, 1980-2010,” in the Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society 1 (2023): 56-91. It was the edition’s featured article. They also presented “Deindustrialization in the Calumet Region: The Case of Chicago, Gary, and U.S. Steel,” at the Bi-Annual Meeting of the Urban History Association in October 2023. He also chaired a panel on transportation politics at the meeting. He was also sat for several interviews about their book A Good Place to Do Business, including on the Hagley History Hangout (https://www.hagley.org/research/history-hangout-mark-h-rose), the New Books Network (https://newbooksnetwork.com/a-good-place-to-do-business), and Wovserz, an online trucking industry publication. Additionally, he served as chair of the Business History Conference’s Investment Committee, on which he provided recommendations for the $5 million gift the conference received from the Kaufman Foundation. He also served as an outside mentor on three recent Ph.D. committees at universities.

KELLY J. SHANNON, PH.D., is the W. Glenn Campbell and Rita Ricardo-Campbell National Fellow for Peace, Justice, and Human Rights. He was a panelist working group on Religion, Spirituality, and Human Rights. He was a panelist with film promoter Richard Salomon for the Boca Raton screening of “The Devil’s Confession: The Lost Eichmann Tapes” (2023) at The Studio at Mizner Park.

Harold L. Glasser Memorial Lecture

On November 7, 2023, the History Department welcomed Jay A. Stout, Lt. Col. (Ret.) USMC, to campus for the Harold L. Glasser Memorial Lecture. In a fascinating talk, “Bombing the Nazis: The Wartime Service of Harold L. Glasser,” Stout discussed military aviation in the European theatre during World War II, illustrating the experience of thousands of American service members through a close look at Glasser’s time as a decorated bombardier. The event, co-hosted by FAU Libraries and the Harold L. Glasser Endowment, drew a packed house to the fifth floor of the Wimberly Library, where guests were also invited to a reception that highlighted materials from the library’s Glasser Collection. Dr. Patricia Kollander, Professor of History, moderated Stout’s talk, and History alumna Victoria Thur, Assistant Dean for Special Collections, Archives, and Distinctive Collections, installed the display.
The museum is located in the Schmidt Family Complex for Academic and Athletic Excellence on the North Side of the FAU Boca campus (adjacent to the Stadium). Admission is free. Donations welcomed. For more information, email fogelmanmuseum@fau.edu

Annual Department Awards

General donations to the History Department (HUM 200) are always appreciated to further the work of our faculty, students, and general program needs or you can contribute to one of the established funds listed below. For more information, contact the History Department at 561-297-3840 or mail your check payable to the FAU Foundation, Inc. to: Florida Atlantic University - Dorothy F. Schmidt College of Arts and Letters, Department of History, 777 Glades Road, Boca Raton, FL 33431

It is now easy to make donations to any of these accounts by going to this online link and designating where you want your gift to go: https://fauf.fau.edu/arts-and-letters. Choose History Department in the drop down menu. You can further designate your gift to a particular foundation fund by checking the box next to “This gift is in honor, memory, or support of someone” and putting the fund number in the “full name” box. Many thanks to all of you who support us financially.

HUM 200 History Department – The general department account for which we may spend the principal to further the goals of the department. In the past we have used the funds to furnish technological equipment needed for research but not funded by general university support. We have also used the funds to support the activities of Phi Alpha Theta and the department lecture series.

HUM 201 Dr. Harry A. Kersay, Jr. History Endowment Fund – The fund provides financial assistance for tenure-line History faculty members conducting research on the history of indigenous people of Florida, Oceania, the Pacific Islands, and the Caribbean; comparative studies research of indigenous people; the history of early Florida; and oral history related to these topics. It also helps support undergraduate or graduate students who have experience living or working among indigenous peoples and who have demonstrated financial need and declared a History major.

HUM 202 St. George’s Society of Palm Beach History Fund – A monetary award to support History faculty research in British History.

HUM 203 Anthony (Tony) Anderson ’79 History Faculty Fund Honoring Dr. Boyd Breslaw – This fund is to be used to honor faculty in the Department of History for research funding, conference travel and other needs as defined by the Department Chair to support faculty.

HUM 204 The Marvin and Sybil Weiner Spirit of America Travel - Study Award – To provide a travel-study award for an outstanding History major who will write a significant research paper dealing with early American history or European roots that had a direct effect on American history through 1865.

HUM 205 Martin and Sylvia Shaw History Scholarship – A monetary award for a History major with academic merit and financial need. The award will be applied to tuition and fees. Students must enroll following receipt of the award.

HUM 206 The Lady Susan Willis Reikert Fund for British Arts and Culture – This fund has been established to support FAU’s History Department faculty in their interdisciplinary approach to expose students to British Art, Art History, Architecture, History, Music, Literature, and Theater.

HUM 220 Francis Edelman Graduate Teaching Award – A monetary award to a Graduate Student based upon academic achievement and student evaluations.

HUM 220 Traci Jill Edelman Memorial Endowed Fund – A monetary award for a History student based upon the best essay/paper in Latin American history; a monetary award for a sophomore or junior with academic merit; a monetary award for the best writing/paper from a History major in women, gender, or sexuality; a monetary award for the best essay/paper in European history; and a monetary award for the best History M.A. thesis.

HUM 235 John O’Sullivan Annual Memorial Lectureship – Allows the Department of History each Fall semester to host a distinguished scholar in 20th century American history to lecture to students, secondary school teachers, faculty and the public.

HUM 240 John O’Sullivan Travel Grant – An award to defray the costs of graduate thesis research; amount varies based upon availability of funds and applications. To be eligible, students must have achieved candidacy and submitted a statement of purpose and budget for their research, as well as a letter of support from their primary thesis advisor.

HUM 290 Levinson Award in East Asian History – A monetary award for a History student based upon the best essay/paper in East Asian History.

HUM 320 Harold L. Glasser Memorial Award – A monetary award to a History graduate or undergraduate student to support research activities related to the Harold L. Glasser Collection.

HUM 630 Harold L. Glasser Memorial Award – A monetary award for a History major with academic merit and financial need. The award will be applied to tuition and fees. Students must enroll following receipt of the award.

HUM 705 Ed and Jean SeGall Memorial Scholarship – A monetary merit-based award recognizing a freshman-level History major who has demonstrated both academic excellence and a passion for historical study.

HUM 708 Heather T. Frazer Memorial Fund in History – An award to assist History faculty with preference to young tenure-track faculty within the History Department.

HUM 715 Society of Colonial Wars – An award to support the Department of History in undergraduate studies, graduate research, and publication.

HUM 718 Sidney A. Goodman Memorial History Fund – A competitive fellowship that provides additional funding to supplement the stipend and tuition waiver for a mentorship Teaching Assistant.

HUM 745 Weiner Spirit of America Fellowship Fund – The FAU Libraries and the Huntington will offer three joint short term research fellowships for advanced graduate students. These fellowships will spend one month using the Marvin and Sybil Weiner Spirit of America collection in Boca Raton, and one additional month at the Huntington Library in San Marino, California.

HUM 785 Hugh W. Ripley Award – A monetary award to a student who has demonstrated their research skills in Historical Methods or Senior Seminar.
