
Lauren Selsky '07 Alumnus

At Florida Atlantic University

Major: History

Lauren Selsky is currently a researcher for NBC News – Decision 2012 and The TODAY Show.

FIRST JOB:

Desk Assistant, NBC News Washington Bureau.

BIGGEST CHALLENGE:

Getting my foot in the door.

BEST FAU MEMORY: Anything that happened senior year—the year I met my closest friends and took some of my favorite classes.

ROLE DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY PLAYED IN YOUR CAREER:

My background in history definitely gave me an advantage when I first started as a Desk Assistant at NBC. Part of my first job was greeting guests and chatting them up while bringing them to the green room. Being able to talk about the evolution of the European Union with a State Department spokesman or discussing failed 1930's immigration bills with a former National Security Advisor left an impression, and they'd remember the next time they came to the studio.

RECENT READING:

The Hunger Games by Suzanne Collins.

PERSONAL:

Lives in the Washington, D.C. area

