The purpose of Holocaust education is to move from memory to action, not only to learn about, but to learn what to do in the face of the consequences of prejudice and hatred.

- Introduce pedagogy, resources and strategies for effective instruction of the Holocaust
- Strengthen knowledge and develop skills to move beyond commonly known history
- Introduce an understanding of the ramifications of what occurs when a democratic society is compromised and democratic values are in danger.
- Educate teachers, using sound instructional practices, educational strategies, and historical content, on how to teach children, not only the history but also the means to make changes, through the lens of the Holocaust
