GUEST ARTIST BIOS:

Joanne Barrett: Here and Now 2008 was Joanne Barrett's third commission for the Miami Light Project since moving to Miami in 1998. Additionally she has received commissions for the FIU VH-100 Series, Karen Peterson and Dancers, Broward Community College, Tigertail Productions and the Good for Something Dancers. Barrett's work mixes femininity, willfulness and sensuality with adroit body dynamics and intricate spatial concepts to create dance that is reflective and taut. Joanne also performs the works of other Miami artists: Giovanni Luquini, Katherine Kramer, and Pablo Cano and has collaborated with Gary Lund and Dale Andree. Joanne is an adjunct professor at FIU. Prior to Miami, Joanne performed with various companies including Chicago Repertory Dance Ensemble, Michael Clark Dance Company (London), and CONTRADANZA (Uruguay).

Katherine Kramer: Master tap artist, Katherine Kramer's 30-year career has been very eclectic with performances with many of her fellow tap artists, including the late Gregory Hines and Honi Coles; choreographing and coaching Robert Redford in his 1998 film, "The Horse Whisperer"; and jamming with jazz trumpeter, Wynton Marsalis, as featured artists with "Jazz Week" in Anchorage, Alaska. Her BFA in Dance is from Marymount Manhattan College and her MALS in Movement and Dance is from Wesleyan University. Katherine is currently based in Miami, Florida, where she teaches privately. Her summers are spent in Bozeman, Montana, where she produces the international dance and music festival, Rhythm Explosion.
