

Visiting Artist Christopher Miner

Artist Talk

Thursday,
February 24
12 noon
VA 105

A selection of Christopher Miner's videos are included in southXeast: Contemporary Southeastern Art in the Ritter Art Gallery through March 5. He was raised in Jackson, Mississippi, and currently resides in Memphis. Miner's videos address the impact of religion, race, family, and sexuality upon his upbringing. He received a Masters of Fine Art in photography from Yale University in 2000. His previous exhibitions include the solo shows "How Beautiful Heaven Must Be," at Mitchell-Innes & Nash, New York, 2006, and "This Creature, I Am," at Bellwether Gallery, New York, 2003. His work has been included in group exhibitions at The New Museum of Contemporary Art and The Museum of Modern Art in New York.
