

DEPARTMENT OF SPECIAL EDUCATION

Doctoral Student
Pre-Candidacy

Looking for a Date or Choosing a Mate: What difference do individual characteristics make?

Presenter: Lauren Berlingo, M.S. Ed.
ESE Doctoral Student

Berlingo will discuss her research on the attitudes and perceptions of typically developing individuals toward individuals with disabilities in general, and specifically about the prospects of dating and marrying people with disabilities. A survey was created, using two preexisting instruments, to investigate possible differences when individuals without disabilities are asked about the prospects of dating and marrying people with different kinds of disabilities, for example, physical versus intellectual.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 19

1 PM

VIA ZOOM

VIDEO CONFERENCING

Register in advance at: <https://tinyurl.com/2p9xc2be>

After registering, you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the meeting.

This presentation is intended for College of Education students, faculty, staff and interested individuals.

*This research and presentations are in partial fulfillment of requirements for EEX 7918, Pre-Candidacy Research in Special Education.

TO RECEIVE INFORMATION ABOUT FAU-DSE DEGREE PROGRAMS,
EVENTS, ACTIVITIES, OR FACULTY/RESEARCH SCAN THIS QR CODE:

