

Appreciative Administration: Putting the Appreciative Education Theory- to-Practice Framework into Action

About Me

Meagan Elsberry, PhD
She/Her/Hers
Assistant Dean of Students
Lynn University

APPRECIATE.

What We All
Have in Common

Purpose of Study

The purpose of this grounded theory study was to examine how higher education administrators infuse the Appreciative Education framework into their daily administrative practices.

Appreciative Education

Appreciative Inquiry

Appreciative Inquiry, first introduced by Cooperrider and Srivastva (1987), “provides a positive rather than a problem-based lens on the organization, focusing members’ attention on what is possible rather than what is wrong” (van Buskirk, 2002, p. 67).

The Appreciative Inquiry 4-D Cycle. Cooperrider, D.L., & Whitney, D. (2005)

Appreciative Advising

Appreciative Advising is “a social-constructivist advising philosophy that provides an advising framework for advisors to use in optimizing their interactions with students in both individual and group settings” (Bloom et al., 2008, p. 19).

Appreciative Mindset

The appreciative mindset involves looking for the best in others and in organizations instead of using our default tendency to look for the worst (Bloom et al., 2008).

Research Questions

1. How do higher education administrators use the Appreciative Education framework in their administrative practices?
2. What do higher education administrators that use the Appreciative Education framework find to be:
 - a. The benefits of using this framework?
 - b. The challenges of using this framework?

Methodology

- “Qualitative researchers are interested in understanding the meaning people have constructed, that is, how people make sense of their world and the experiences they have in the world” (Merriam, 2009, p. 13).
- Grounded theory approach is appropriate “when you want to develop or modify a theory, explain a process, and develop a general abstraction of the interaction and action of the people” (Creswell, 2002, p. 456).

Research Participants

Sampling Criteria

- Purposeful sampling
 - Had at least one full-time professional reporting to them.
 - Had participated in a formal Appreciative Education training.

Sample Size

- Saturation was reached at 21 participants.

Gender Breakdown

- 9 Males
- 12 Females

Institutional Representation

- 19 Institutions
 - 2 from Community Colleges
 - 13 from 4-year, Public
 - 6 from 4-year, Private

Positions Held

- Assistant/Associate Directors
- Directors
- Assistant/Associate Deans
- Vice Presidents

Appreciative Administration

Establish Trusting Relationships

*“I know that under everything that is successful,
is a trusting relationship.” Ann*

- Walk the Appreciative Talk First
- Provide Support
- Include All Voice
- Ask Powerful Questions
- “Really” Listen

Provide Support

“You do this by building people up, not breaking them down, you do that by offering encouragement, just as often as you offer challenge.” Beth

Establish Trusting Relationships

*“I know that under everything that is successful,
is a trusting relationship.” Ann*

- Walk the Appreciative Talk First
- Provide Support
- Include All Voice
- Ask Powerful Questions
- “Really” Listen

Foster Relationships to Achieve Personal and Organizational Goals

“Approach each person, trying to figure out what can you do to help the team and what can I do to help you? I like that I don’t have to be in control, that I can let good leaders lead.” Ben

- Seek Buy-In
- Empower Without Micromanagement
- Walk Side by Side

Seek Buy-In

“Appreciating the ideas from his team and showing the trust with new projects, the staff had buy-in and were energetic to support each other.” Lyle

Foster Relationships to Achieve Personal and Organizational Goals

“Approach each person, trying to figure out what can you do to help the team and what can I do to help you? I like that I don’t have to be in control, that I can let good leaders lead.” Ben

- Seek Buy-In
 - Empower Without Micromanagement
 - Walk Side by Side
-

“Positive Restlessness”

“We are never perfect, we are never there.” MR

- Celebrate Accomplishments
- Perfectly Imperfect
- Continue to Foster Relationships

Perfectly Imperfect

"It is a commitment to continuous learning and improving. A constant commitment to reflecting."

Lorena

“Positive Restlessness”

“We are never perfect, we are never there.” MR

- Celebrate Accomplishments
- Perfectly Imperfect
- Continue to Foster Relationships

Benefits

Adaptability of the Framework

- Toolkit for Dealing with Uncertainty and Change
- Intentional Framework for Building Better Relationships and Organizations
- Reframe Problems into Opportunities
- Common Language

Employee Development

- Well-Being

Intentional Framework for Building Better Relationships and Organizations

“What we focus on grows, that is where I come from with intentionality, it is not about not talking about stuff or not doing stuff, but it’s the intentional framing and intentional way that you come about addressing issues.” Nicole

Benefits

Adaptability of the Framework

- Toolkit for Dealing with Uncertainty and Change
- Intentional Framework for Building Better Relationships and Organizations
- Reframe Problems into Opportunities
- Common Language

Employee Development

- Well-Being

Challenges

Messy and Hard

- Educating People
- Misperceptions about the Framework

It Takes Consistent Practice

Misperceptions about the Framework

“We have to be more intentional about describing that there’s actually a lot of accountability built into the process....It doesn’t ignore failure. It doesn’t ignore weakness. It doesn’t ignore areas of growth. It just approaches the way that we do that from a different angle that builds trust and allows for vulnerability.” Ann

Challenges

Messy and Hard

- Educating People
- Misperceptions about the Framework

It Takes Consistent Practice

Bringing it all Together

Appreciative Administration is fundamentally situated as a human experience and involves the intentional, consistent, and aspirational practice of establishing trusting relationships in which team members' strengths and skills are identified and leveraged to co-create and achieve personal and organizational goals.

Breakout Questions

- Who comes to mind in terms of somebody who does one or more of these practices of Appreciative Administration well? What specific characteristics about that person are congruent with Appreciative Administration?
- What specific appreciative practices or strategies would you like to develop into habits?

Personal Reflection

“To the world you may be one person; but to one person you may be the world.”
~Dr. Seuss

Questions?

Meagan Elsberry, PhD

Assistant Dean of Students

Lynn University

Melsberry@lynn.edu

Thank You!

References

- Bloom, J. L., Hutson, B. L., & He, Y. (2008). The appreciative advising revolution. Stipes Publishing.
- Cooperrider, D. L., & Srivastva, S. (1987). Appreciative inquiry in organizational life. In W. Pasmore & R. Woodman (Eds.), Research in Organization Change and Development, 1, 129-169.
- Cooperrider, D. L., & Whitney, D. (2005). Appreciative Inquiry: A positive revolution in change. Berrett-Koehler Publishers, Inc.
- Creswell, J. (2002). Educational research: Planning, conducting, and evaluating quantitative and qualitative research. Merrill Prentice Hall.
- Elsberry, M. (2022). Appreciative administration: How the appreciative education theory-to-practice framework is being infused into higher education administrative practices (Publication No. 29998799) [Doctoral dissertation, Florida Atlantic University]. ProQuest Dissertations and Theses Global.
- Kuh, G., Kinzie, J., Schuh, J.H., & Whitt, E.J. (Eds.). (2005). Student success in college: Creating conditions that matter. Jossey-Bass.
- Merriam, S. B. (2009). Qualitative research: A guide to design and implementation. (2nd ed.). Jossey-Bass.
- van Buskirk, W. (2002). Appreciating appreciative inquiry in the urban Catholic school. In R. Fry, F. Barrett, J. Seiling, and D. Whitney (Eds.), Appreciative inquiry and organizational transformation: reports from the field (pp. 67-97). Quorum Books.

