Proposed Catalog Language:

Current language:

Students are admitted for the fall, spring, and summer semester each academic year. The application deadline for Fall is May 1, for Spring is October 1, and for Summer is February 1 of each year. For international students, it is six weeks earlier. Selection for admission to FAU's MSW program is a highly competitive process, and contingent upon the admission committee's holistic assessment of each individual application packet, offers of admission may be awarded on a full-time or part-time basis. If accepted for admission into the M.S.W. program, all incoming students are required to attend an M.S.W. orientation conducted during the week prior to the beginning of their admission term.

All students applying for Spring admission to the MSW program apply to the part time program, whether traditional or advanced standing, and are eligible to apply for the relevant field placement, generalist or specialist, in that Fall or the following Fall.

New language:

Students are admitted for the fall, spring, and summer semester each academic year for the traditional MSW program options. Students are admitted only in the summer semester for the MSW online option. The application deadline for the traditional MSW program option for Fall is May 1, for Spring is October 1, and for Summer is February 1 of each year. For the MSW online option, the application deadline is January 1. For international students, it is six weeks earlier. Selection for admission to FAU's MSW program is a highly competitive process, and contingent upon the admission committee's holistic assessment of each individual application packet, offers of admission may be awarded on a full-time or part-time basis. If an applicant is not accepted into the online MSW program, they will automatically be considered for admission into our traditional on-campus options. If accepted for admission into the M.S.W. program, all incoming students are required to attend an M.S.W. orientation conducted during the week prior to the beginning of their admission term.
