Library Services

University Libraries

Carol Hixson, Dean of University Libraries

<https://library.fau.edu>

The Florida Atlantic University (FAU) Libraries include the S.E. Wimberly Library on the Boca Raton campus, the John D. MacArthur campus library at Jupiter, the Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institute Library in Fort Pierce, as well as collections housed at the Broward County Public Library that serves FAU in downtown Fort Lauderdale and a joint-use library with Broward College on FAU's Davie Campus.

Wimberly serves as the main library for the majority of the students enrolled in Information Technology and Operations Management courses and has been redesigned and reimagined as a space of what a 21st century academic library should look and feel like. It provides 41 faculty and student group study rooms, a graduate study lounge, collaborative workstations, study carrels, an electronic classroom, two assistive technology workstations available for use by persons with disabilities in the Instruction and Engagement Services Department, a computer lab, and an audiovisual media center. Altogether, the building can seat approximately 1,406 users. The library is reviewing plans for creating additional seating space on the second floor west wing and the third floor east wing.

The Wimberly Library's current building hours during Covid-19 response are as follows:

(http://libguides.fau.edu/lib\_hours)

- Monday through Friday – 8:30 am-5:00pm

Wimberly Library is open 42.5 hours a week. Total library traffic for 2018-2019 was 950,278 and traffic for 2017-2018 was 742,413.

Library Resources Available to Students and Faculty:

The Libraries' collection comprises more than 1.3 million volumes, as well as comprehensive collections of U.S. and Florida government documents, maps, curriculum materials, DVDs, videos, CDs and other materials. The Libraries also house many distinctive collections including artist's books, sound recordings, print music, rare books and manuscripts, and University Archives. The Digital Library creates online collections from unique materials from Special Collections and University Archives and serves as the University's repository for the intellectual output created on campus. An online-catalog of library holdings provides a listing of physical resources in the FAU Libraries and the other 11 Florida public university libraries. The Information Technology and Operations Management print books and journals are cataloged using the Library of Congress classification system.

Services by Library Department:

Access Services Department (<https://library.fau.edu/access-services>):

- Service Desk
Basic reference service to students and faculty is provided by Access Services staff during all hours that the library is open.
- Media Center
(<https://library.fau.edu/access-services/media>)
The Media Center houses the University's primary collection of audiovisual materials. Formats supported by the Media Center include videotape, DVD, and CD. FAU Libraries maintains formal relationships with the State University Libraries through the Florida Virtual Campus (FLVC) and regional libraries in the Southeast Florida Library Information Network (SEFLIN). In addition to the computers available for use throughout the library, the entire building is equipped for laptop wireless connectivity. A five-story addition opened in spring 2007 and provides students with a 24-hour study location and many other features.
- Course Reserves for Faculty and Students:
Faculty may place course reference materials and supplemental teaching materials on course reserve for the semester the course is offered. Materials are available to enrolled students from personal copies belonging to the instructor or from the Libraries' collection, in print, electronic, or multimedia formats, in compliance with the Copyright Law of the United States (Title 17, U.S. Code). Some materials can be scanned as electronic documents and made available to students 24/7 by accessing the Course Reserve link on the library's homepage (<http://www.library.fau.edu/depts/access/resfac.htm>).

Instruction and Engagement Services Department (<https://library.fau.edu/instruction-engagement>):

- In-Depth Reference Services:
Four Instruction and Engagement librarians provide on-call reference service available to students and faculty for more in-depth questions 42.5 hours per week, five days a week. Reference assistance is also available online and by telephone. Librarians offer one-on-one reference consultation services by appointment covering any library research topic and library instruction sessions may be arranged for classes or individuals.

Request a Research Consultation or Faculty Orientation are also available (<https://libweb.fau.edu/eforms/request-a-research-consultation-or-faculty-orientation/>)

Consultations may be conducted in-person, by telephone, or online via Skype or Zoom.

Besides providing on-call reference service for on-site patrons, the Instruction and Engagement Services Department provides assistance through online chat, text, email, and telephone. FAU Libraries are members of the statewide Ask-A-Librarian network, which more than doubles the number of hours that live online help is available to FAU library patrons. FAU librarians are available via the Ask-A-Librarian network from 1 pm - 5 pm from Monday through Friday (<https://askalibrarian.org/fau>). For all other times, librarians from around the state with access to FAU Libraries' online resources are available for online chat assistance.

- Workshops:

The Instruction and Engagement Services Department offers a variety of workshops, which have included topics such as APA Bootcamp, Avoiding Plagiarism, and an Introduction to Research, as well as tours of the library (<https://library.fau.edu/instruction-engagement/workshops-and-tours>). Workshops are offered both in-person and online, and recordings of some workshops are available. Certificates of completion are also available.

- Research Guides (LibGuides):

The Instruction and Engagement Services Department offers online research guides called LibGuides (<http://libguides.fau.edu/>) including Information Technology and Operations Management (<https://libguides.fau.edu/MAN3025>). These guides highlight library resources such as databases, and electronic journals.

- Instructional Classes:

Instructional classes related to student coursework can be requested by faculty or students through the Library's Instruction and Engagement Services Department (<https://library.fau.edu/instruction-engagement>).

Information Technology Services (ITS) Department:

- Computing Services

The FAU Libraries provide personal computers (PCs), laptops, and various software for the FAU community:

- 275 public PCs / 30 public Macs
- 170 public laptops / 26 public MacBooks
- 60 public iPads

Computers are available on a first-come, first-served basis and have the following basic software for FAU patrons and the public:

Internet Explorer, Google Chrome, Mozilla Firefox, Fi7-Zip, Adobe Acrobat Reader, Adobe Creative Cloud, Adobe Illustrator CC, Adobe Illustrator CS6, Adobe Photoshop CC, Adobe Photoshop Elements 6.0, Audacity, Avidemux, Camtasia Studio 7 ,CDBurnerXP, Citrix Receiver, Final Cut Pro X Suite, Gimp, Mathematica, Matlab, Microsoft Office, Microsoft Visual Code, Python, QuickTime, Respondus LockDown Browser, SPSS Statistics, VLC Media Player, ZoomText, Read and Write, JAWS.

Library users may bring a Flash/USB drive or other type of memory device to save information.

PC and Mac laptop computers are available in the Libraries' Media Center for FAU library users and affiliates and are for use within the library building.

Interlibrary Loan Department:

- Interlibrary Loan Services

The Interlibrary Loan Department (ILL) provides loans of printed material, e-articles and e-book chapters, and media and other material held at FAU Libraries, as well as ILL materials held globally by other libraries. FAU Interlibrary Loan is also part of the Florida-wide UBorrow system. ILL extends privileges to all faculty, staff, and currently-enrolled students, including distance learners.

Collection Management Department:

- Electronic Resources Collection

of journal titles (<https://library.fau.edu/>) or directly from the A-Z list (<https://libguides.fau.edu/az.php>). Off-campus access is available 24/7 and restricted to current students, faculty, and staff who must log in to a proxy server with their University NetID and password.

There are numerous electronic resources in Information Technology and Operations Management and related fields available. A list of the major products follows:

- Foundations and Trends in Technology, Information and Operations Management
- International Journal of Business, Marketing, & Decision Science
- Journal of Operations Management
- Operations Management Research
- Journal of Information Systems & Operations Management
- International Journal of Information, Business and Management
- International Journal of Interoperability in Business Information Systems

- Acquisitions of Information Technology and Operations Management-Related Materials:

The department of Information Technology and Operations Management has a librarian liaison specifically for Information Technology and Operations Management library services, (<https://library.fau.edu/collection-management/library-liaisons>). This liaison regularly reviews notifications of newly published books on the subject. Professors may also request materials and are encouraged to participate in the selection process. Requests for new materials are submitted through the online Materials Suggestion Form, (<https://libweb.fau.edu/eforms/materials-suggestion-form/>). The Collection Development Librarian notifies the faculty member that the form has been received and that purchases will be initiated pending review by the library's Collection Management Department and the availability of funds.

Additional Libraries Support for the Department of Information Technology and Operations Management:

Professional Library Staff Available and Assigned Primarily to the Department of Information Technology and Operations Management:

Instruction and Engagement Services librarians provide reference service and instructional classes to the Department of Information Technology and Operations Management. The designated librarian liaison selects materials in Information Technology and Operations Management and related fields and is also responsible for outreach regarding collections and services to the faculty in the Department.

ITOM Program Progress Report

Progress Report on Program Review Action Plans

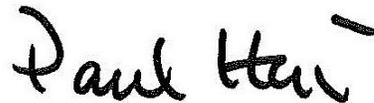

The Florida Board of Governors mandates formal program reviews every 7 years to be conducted in a process approved by the institution's Board of Trustees. As part of the review process, FAU requires programs to file a post-review report on progress made on the individual action items that came out of the formal review. The unit is responsible for implementing the action plan and assessing its progress on key goals at the 4-year interim. This progress report is to be completed by the Department Chair/School Director in consultation with faculty and Dean of the College.

1. Department: Information Technology and Operations Management
2. Programs reviewed: BBA/BS in Management Information Systems and MS in Information Technology and Management
3. Date of last BOG-mandated review of programs in your department: Spring 2014
4. In reviewing the items on the action plan that came about from the last formal review of programs in your department/school, please comment on EACH item where progress/success has been achieved. Give the timeline for implementation of those items and some assessment of the success of that implementation. If some progress has been made on the item, but more needs to occur, indicate so in the timeline.
5. In reviewing the items on the action plan that came about from the last formal review of programs in your department/school, please comment on EACH item where progress has not been made. What have been the roadblocks in achieving success on those items? What steps is the department taking to overcome those roadblocks?
6. What other major changes have been made or have occurred in department/school programs that will likely impact (positively or negatively) the next BOG-mandated program review?

Goal 1: To distinguish and brand the Department and the College in Business Analytics.

- Creation of Center for Business Analytics. Since the Program Review was conducted, the University has taken a number of steps to advance data analytics as an institutional priority which has mitigated the urgency and importance of establishing a distinct Center for Business Analytics. At the same time, the Department Chair has played an integral role in coalescing targeted partners to advance analytics within the College and she serves as the College's representative on the University Data Analytics Strategic Platform Steering Committee.
- The Vice President of Research created the university-wide Center for Data Analytics, and appointed Engineering Professor Taghi Khoshgoftaar as Chair of the Center.
- Within the College, Business Analytics continues to be an important component of the Department's mission and the College's strategic efforts. Key objectives in support of both include industry participation, strategic faculty hiring, and curriculum and program development. While a number of these objectives have been achieved, efforts to strengthen analytics are ongoing.
- Interested faculty across departments in the College have worked to advance Business Analytics across disciplines. For example, courses in Health Administration analytics and Sports Management analytics have been offered and are very popular. Another achievement is the creation of the Business Analytics track in the MS in Information Technology and Management program. Similarly, we have created a Business Analytics Graduate Certificate for professionals and students from other fields. Both of these programs are highly popular as well.

Goal 2: To strengthen the area of Operations and Supply Chain Management.

- Engage the faculty in a strategic exercise intended to develop the most appropriate academic undergraduate/graduate program to advance Supply Chain Management (SCM) as a critical area of business preparation at FAU. The Department conducted a comprehensive examination of the demand, the resources, and the cross-disciplinary options for creating a viable program in Supply Chain Management. Critical relationships with the Departments of Marketing and International Business in the College of Business, and the Department of Civil Engineering in the College of Engineering and Computer Science have been developed. Efforts focused on how to incorporate courses from programs offered by the respective departments.

Associate Professor David Menachof from the University of Hull, UK, was recently hired to lead the Supply Chain Management and Ports Logistics initiative. He has held multiple meetings with the targeted departments and redesigned the undergraduate and graduate courses for Quality Management and Supply Chain Management. Together with our department partners, we are in the process of creating a Graduate Certificate in Supply Chain Management and Transportation Logistics which is now being reviewed by the faculty in both colleges. We expect the Certificate to be in the catalog during the next academic year. Dr. Menachof and the Department Chair also designed a proposed graduate Master degree in Supply Chain Management. Preliminary procedural steps are being undertaken to obtain approval for such a program.

- Create a Center for Supply Chain Management. The Department has also been working toward creation of a Supply Chain Center. Dr. Menachof has developed a network of industry contacts who are stakeholders in South Florida, including the Fort Lauderdale and Boca Raton Chamber of Commerce and the Port Everglades Association. He is also working with other stakeholders in the industry, College of Engineering and the College of Business including Dr. Len Trevino, Director of the International Business Program, to develop a vision for the Center.

Goal 3: To enhance the quality of the undergraduate MIS programs and the graduate MSITM program.

- The department will consider reintroducing programming as an area of concentration. The Department has been working toward this academic goal. The number of sections of the core programming course (ISM 3230) was increased. Previously we offered one section each Fall and each Spring whereas now two sections are offered each semester, and one section in the Summer. The Department is promoting the value of programming and web development skills and the student demand for programming is being met.

During 2015-2016, we started integrating mobile development into business courses (ISM 6058 and ISM 4053). Initially these courses had low enrollments. With the Dean's office support these lower enrolled courses were not cancelled for a period of 2 to 3 years. The courses now have strong and stable enrollments.

In the Spring 2018, a Web Development project course was initiated which included the following skills: creating dynamic web content, with user transactions, based on PHP, Java Server Pages and Servlets, Java Script, and HTML 5. The Chair assigned an instructor with a very good reputation among the students to teach the course. However, even with the active promotion of ISM 3230 instructors, the course had low enrollment. The Chair is working with the Dean's office to ensure that lower enrollment of the course will not affect availability with the hope that in time it will become popular -- similar to the pattern that evolved with the courses previously described. Once this goal is achieved, we will be ready to reintroduce the programming track.

In reviewing the items on the action plan that came about from the last formal review of programs in your department/school, please comment on EACH item where progress has not been made. What have been the roadblocks in achieving success on those items? What steps is the department taking to overcome those roadblocks?

Goal 1:

- Development of concentration in Business Analytics for MBA students. At this time a concentration has not been developed due to strategic planning priorities of the MBA and Market rate programs. We are planning to continue to work on this goal as we prioritize various issues.
- Naming the Center with a $15 million donation. This was a long-term goal. In line with the strategic accomplishments of FAU in creating University-wide Data Analytics center, we are looking toward accepting gifts and donation of a central initiative particularly aimed at the continuous development of impactful research and curriculum in Business Analytics in the College of Business.

Goal 2:

- Supply Chain Management programs. At this time we have not formally requested to initiate the process of new degree undergraduate / graduate programs in Supply Chain Management. As explained above, we expect certificate programs to be in the catalog by the next academic year, and to develop a clearer vision regarding a Master's program of Supply Chain Management/Transportation Logistics going forward.
- Create a Center for Supply Chain Management. At this time, we have not yet established a Center since this is a long-term exercise that involves all levels of University leadership. As described above, we are working on a number of initiatives in an effort to build programmatic offerings and relationships with industry partners.

What other major changes have been made or have occurred in department/school programs that will likely impact (positively or negatively) the next BOG-mandated program review?

- We have experienced significant enrollment growth both in the undergraduate and graduate programs. We have one full professor in MIS retiring as of next year. We have one visiting instructor (on a 4–4) load who has been appointed for two years and the next academic year is mandated to be his last allowed. This resulted in straining of faculty resources in both teaching and research.
- In particular, currently there are no in-unit full professors of Management Information Systems in the Department compared to three full professors in Operations Management. This creates an imbalance that may (positively or negatively) impact tenure and promotion decisions, research productivity, and program development. The only currently existing undergraduate and graduate programs in the Department are both in Management Information Systems.
- To meet the current class offering demand, the Department employs 9 to 11 adjunct faculty (each teaching 2-5 courses per year) and has 16 full time faculty.

ITOM Advisory Board Survey and Industry Support Letters

Free response 3-question survey among ITOM Advisory Board members about creating a Master of Science in Business Analytics program
Survey conducted in 2019-2020

| Company                           | Question 1   | Question 2   | Question 3  |
|-----------------------------------|--|--|---|
|                                   | If your current and/or future employees complete such a graduate program and acquire the skills listed above, would your company benefit from their skills and knowledge?   | Is your company or industry experiencing increased demand for Big Data analytics and employees with business (data) analytics skills? If not, do you anticipate such a demand within the next 3 years?  | If you have any comments or ideas you want to share, please write them below   |
| Southern Wine and spirits  | I do feel that given today's great demand for data, that this skill set would be something of interest to my company.  | Yes we are starting to see the need for people with this type of skills, but we are in the early stages of that demand.  | I would say that the people learning these skills need to understand the context of the information they are mining and have some ability to analyze and interpret the data, so that actionable decisions can be made.  |
| GA Telesis, LLC            | Yes our company would benefit from these skills and knowledge listed above.  | Yes our company's main focus is now defined around intelligence and making decisions based on this acquired intelligence   | A big gap in the data science world is bridging the gap between the actual science and the business application of that science; I found that many people fell to sharply on one side or the other. Simply put someone in the business analyst field has to be able to bridge the gap between the technical and non-technical users of the data. They need to understand business acumen and the use cases for data and data visualization. My last intern for example was great at creating fancy regression charts, etc... but was not able to tell a story with the data. I was not able to teach him this skill because he was too focused on the "how" or technical aspect and forgot the "why" he was doing it aspect |
| Memorial Healthcare System | Yes. In the health care industry, we are accustomed to using many disparate systems, most of which will not talk to one another without bridges. We currently have a DBA team who built a data warehouse to manage this data. This project has been in place for several years and there is much work still to be done. So, Yes is my answer to questions one and two. | Yes  | Currently, we have dashboards for finance, human resources, and medical specialties. This is only the beginning of the information yet to be tapped. As we have modify our standing in the market to reflect the regulatory demands and meet the health care requirements of our community at reduced reimbursement rates, we are introducing more systems to manage our population health. Therefore, we are expecting much more information. Data analytics and informatics is necessary to monitor our standing and make decisions. I can see a continued demand for these skills for some time into the future.   |
| Citrix                     | Citrix (and many companies) would benefit from the program described. Its important to know that this is not only an IT focused area of need. We see growing demand across all business units at Citrix where the need is to better understand and leverage these capabilities, example areas are Sales, Services, Engineering, Finance. The ability                   | Our demand for advanced analytics skills and data management has increased significantly over the last 3 years with roles being created across all facets of the company, Sales, Engineering, Services, IT, and Finance. The demand should only increase | I like the fact that the name of the program is "Masters program in Business Analytics." As you build out the description I think its important to not overuse "Big Data." Big Data as a term is already getting to a very overused point and business leaders are starting to shy-away from the "magic" of big data by itself. Speaking  |

|                        | to better understand and manipulate data to drive better decision making is increasingly important. As many companies become more data focused the different business units are put in a position where they have to evaluate 10s and 100s of metrics to make decisions. The inability to leveraging advanced analytics to help make simplified recommendations and propensity models most business units fall back on traditional decision making processes. Teams and leaders that have just business awareness and understanding of what capabilities exist in data and advanced analytics and how the capabilities apply to business (with some real-world scenarios to fall back on) are significantly ahead of most leaders. |  | to more specifics around advanced analysis, statical modeling and analysis, predictive analysis, recommendation engines etc. will help attract more teams and build more business credibility. It is important to highlight the focus on the management of complex, diverse and large data sets, just not too much "big data." <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• A subset of this coursework would be very valuable to MBA programs.</li> <li>• Other areas of interest are how the results and insights from data and advanced analytic can be integrated into the BI systems that companies already leverage to run their business.</li> <li>• Its valuable to have an emphasis on applying these technical skills against business related problems via business case studies, possibly with local businesses.</li> <li>• The people on our teams that have been the most successful also have strong programing skills in one or all of the following languages: Python, Java and R.</li> <li>• Coursera.com has done a really good job in the data, analytics and data science education space and it would be worthwhile for you to look at the programs there from Stanford and JohnHopkin's. | OIT, FAU        | Yes   | Yes  | The need for the skills are paramount in a metrics driven world.   |
| IBM             | Yes, these skills are in high demand.   | Yes, these skills will remain in high demand over the next 5 years.  | I didn't see mention of Business Intelligence or Analytics details. I would suggest exposure with Cognos, SPSS, SAS, and Google Analytics.   |
| More Visibility | Absolutely! We are in desperate need of talent that has strong analytical thinking and skills. We have a growing dept. within our Ad Agency dedicated to Analytics and Data Intelligence and cannot keep up with the demand.  | Yes. We are having to find analytical thinkers and really provide extensive training to them, versus having people come to us with this skillset in hand. This demand will only grow in next few years, in my opinion, given the availability of more data and demand by advertisers, marketers and executives to understand behavior, patterns and leverage what has been for making predictions. | This is an area FAU can really differentiate themselves and provide a tremendous edge to their students, as well as the employers in demand of good talent. Everything companies are doing now is dependent on data - all types of data from all different sources, and then used a variety of different ways. The ability to technically pull all this data together and manipulate it is very important, but equally so is the ability to interpret it and provide an answer or identify an issue/tell a story. My company is currently in demand for these types of workers and we struggle to find them.   |

|------------------|---|---|--|
|                  |   |   | I would welcome this type of program, and encourage and emphasis on both the technical and the analysis areas of the business.   |
| Abeyon    | Business intelligence and Data Analytics are a rapidly growing field and there is a plenty of demand and potential for someone with these skills. Although we (Abeyon) don't have a need currently for those skills, I know several firms working in that space and will benefit from BI and Data Analytics training.   | Absolutely. We anticipate having demand for that type of credentials in 3 yrs or less   | Healthcare as you know is growing through an enormous transition. Understanding and capabilities in mobile, telemedicine, Business Analytics, Data Analytics and healthcare payment models will be very helpful. Additionally, capabilities in BI tools like Hadoop, Microsoft CRM etc will be helpful for students horizontally (across industries). From my perspective, next 3 yrs technology is going to be around mobile, big data and cloud enabled applications. Applications that does not cater to these 3 technologies will fall behind. |
| NCCI      | We would definitely be interested in graduates of a program like this, particularly in my Data area or IT (the other logical place is our Actuarial area, but that requires a lot of domain expertise on actuarial science and insurance practices). In these areas, Data mining tools and techniques & advanced Excel knowledge would be helpful. For us, the Big data aspect is less applicable, but still a strong nice to have. | Definitely on the data analytics side. Big Data isn't as big a deal for us since we are fortunate enough to have access to all the structured data we need. | If students are getting these skills along with more traditional skills like SQL querying, they should be marketable. Another item of note would be really understanding the pros and cons of open source software. It is great and can really accelerate development, but it can also come with some unintended licensing constraints and other challenges. Sometimes recent grads don't have an appreciation for those subtleties.   |
| GM Family | Yes, our Associates and company would benefit from these skills. It seems inevitable that demand for analytical skills around Big Data and social media will increase significantly over time.  | I have noticed a small increase already and assume the demand will increase at a greater rate over the next few years.                                      | This sounds like a great program that is very timely. Business analytics continues to get more and more complex so improved education and focus on these skills can only help graduates and corporations   |

Dear Dean Gropper,

Smart As Data Consulting is a business specializing in the implementation and advancement of data management and analytics within organizations. Prior to my recent launch of Smart As Data Consulting, I served in a variety of technical and data related roles, most recently as Chief Information Officer at a national Healthcare Revenue Cycle Management company.

Through my experience it became evident that many growing companies and technical teams across industries are yearning for data expertise. Quality data capture, data lifecycle, and data analysis are invaluable to a business; as data is transformed into information and then into knowledge, it brings transparency and insight to an organization that accelerates growth and efficiency. I have witnessed first-hand the impact that data and business analytics can have on an organization, improving internal processes and operations as well as external appeal and competitive advantage.

Educational opportunities for students to learn business analytics and data management skills will continue to be vital and sought after across industries. The proposed coursework that will teach students to extract, curate, preserve, analyze, mine, visualize, and present structured and unstructured business data, in order to make well informed executive decisions in any domain-specific contexts of business, will prepare graduates to enter and contribute to the workforce. Therefore, I am writing this letter in support of the program launch for FAU's proposed Master of Science in Business Analytics and will gladly be a resource for additional discussion, planning, or lecturing should the program gain approval.

Please contact me directly with any further thoughts or questions.

Sincerely,

Jessica De Puy

RE: Support for launch of MS in Business Analytics

Dear Dean Gropper,

ADT has been in the business of helping save lives for more than 145 years. As the number one smart home security provider serving residential and business customers, our people are our most important asset. Headquartered in Boca Raton, FL and at more than 200 locations across North America, our employees help empower our customers to live more secure and confident lives.

As the current data world is rapidly evolving the demand for volume, speed, accuracy, and availability of data driven insights is exponentially increasing. As firms are moving from batch jobs to real time, on premise to cloud storage, and customized platforms; tools and services have increased in specialization leading to a more complex infrastructure. The need for talented Business Analysts and Project Managers who exhibit a balance of technical skills and business savviness is in high and growing demand.

As ADT continues to evolve and as we are also going through many migrations and transitions, we find ourselves in need of more and higher skilled BAs and PMs. The market requires an increase in well-balanced talent of technical, business, and intrapersonal skills entering the market. Given the active and positive relationship between the two parties focused on career education and networking, I would like to support FAU in making this advanced degree a reality. I will continue to be available to support and participate in annual career events as well as facilitate office tours as desired.

Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,

Helena Fopiano
Director, Advanced Analytics

RE: Support for FAU's Launch of Masters in Science Program - Business Analytics

Dear Dean Gropper:

The South Florida Manufacturers Association (SFMA), established in 1961, has a primary mission to serve manufacturers. We are an industry trade association with member companies involved in manufacturing, supply chain, trade and logistics, and other industries that support the manufacturing industry. Our territory spans over 8 counties and we represent an area that has over 6,000 manufacturers.

The need for knowledgeable talent who can extract actionable intelligence from data is growing and demanded by our manufacturing company members. We are glad to see that FAU recognizes this need and is committed to increasing educational opportunities with focus on business analytics and business innovation through artificial intelligence. This focus is readily acknowledged as desired by our members. Business Data Analysts with balanced technical, business, and communication skills as well as understanding of business and processes are in high and growing demand.

The SFMA would like to support FAU in making this advanced degree a reality. We will continue to be actively engaged and participate in initiatives as needed. Members are willing to be available to participate in an Advisory Board capacity, through guest lecturing, and/or company tours.

Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,

C. Jim Han, Ph.D.

Professor, Department of Information Technology and Operations Management, College of Business,
Florida Atlantic University

Research interests: Dr. Han studies logistics systems and decision supporting systems, with most of his recent research focused on global supply chain management. Several other research interests encompass management information systems, artificial intelligence, and discrete systems modeling. He teaches courses on operations management, probability and statistics, artificial intelligence, systems modeling, object-oriented design and programming, computer systems evaluation, and quantitative methods for business. Dr. Han has published over sixty research articles, appearing in some of the most prestigious journals in Systems Engineering related fields. These include the Annals of CIRP, Journal of Manufacturing Systems, International Journal of Production Research, Transactions of the NAMRI, Journal of Manufacturing Technology Management, among others.

FIU - Master of Science in Data Science Program Description (School of Computing and Information Sciences) CIP 11.0501. The Master of Science in Data Science is an interdisciplinary program that provides broad and deep technical training in data science, drawing on faculty expertise from five different colleges across the FIU campus, allowing for specialization in several key application areas of importance to industry, and training students from a wide variety of disciplines. The program is aimed at students with sound analytical skills holding a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, Computer Engineering, Statistics, Healthcare Management, Management Information Systems, Hospitality Management, or related disciplines. The program will have a common core involving four courses in Computing and Statistics plus a Capstone course. The Elective courses are offered as separate specialization tracks to prepare students to become data scientists in areas such as Computational Data Analytics, Business Data Analytics, College of Engineering and Computing Graduate Catalog 2020-2021 Hospitality Data Analytics, and Biostatistics Data Analytics. The program will prepare students with professional experience for the marketplace. The Capstone course will pursue a discipline-specific and industry-relevant project in data analytics.
