Colleagues,

The School Leaders Program in the Department of Educational Leadership and Research Methodology is seeking to request the course and program changes to the School Leaders Masters and Specialist programs as summarized below. None of these changes should conflict with the content of any other program currently offered through the College of Education.

New course request

We would like to request the addition of EDA 6053 Contemporary Trends in Education to the program requirements and catalog (New Course Form and Syllabus attached)

Rationale: This course has been created to provide a deeper dive into six important topics covered in both master's and specialist programs. The topics are fiscal management practices, school culture and safety, needs of varied student populations, curriculum leadership, human capital leadership and management, and contemporary trends in education law.

Program changes

These changes will affect both Master's and Education Specialist Degrees (see MED and EDS Change Program Requests and Professional Knowledge Program Requirements attached).

We would like to request the addition of EDA 6232 Law and Policy to the program requirements.

This course is currently listed in the FAU catalog. It has been updated to reflect the current law and policy environment in the state of Florida. It will replace EDF 6786 Policy and Politics as a program requirement.

Additionally, we would like to request the removal of:

EDF 6786 Policy and Politics. To be removed from the program requirements and FAU catalog for the reasons mentioned above.

EDA 6191 Leadership for Social Justice is a course that is listed in the FAU catalog. While we are removing the course as a program requirement we are recommending that this course remain in the catalog for possible use as an elective.

Please review these proposed recommendations and let me know if there are potential conflicts or concerns from your department. Thanks. Bob
