

FLORIDA ATLANTIC UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Policy Events

Should South Florida Be the Next Silicon Valley of the Ocean?

As coastal regions and marine industries confront the growing environmental challenges and sustainable innovation, South Florida has emerged as a prime candidate for becoming a national leader in ocean and climate technology.

This panel discussion will center around a new model of economic growth—one that invests in strategic partnerships among universities, businesses, non-profits, and governments, and will explore the considerations of making South Florida the next Silicon Valley of the Ocean.

MAY 15

10-11:30 AM

Florida Atlantic University MetroLab
111 E Las Olas Blvd
Fort Lauderdale, FL 33301

Free and open to the public, but registration is required.

Register here: www.fau.edu/oppe

