President's Message

Dear Scholars,

Welcome to our 40th Annual IAHC Conference in beautiful Greenville, SC. This year's theme: Caring and Interprofessional Practice: Re-imagining the Patient Care Experience grounds us in the understanding that IAHC represents a broad community of scholars brought together to advance the science of human caring. To re-imagine is to imagine anew – to form a new conception (Merriam-Webster Online Dictionary). Over the next few days, caring scholars from around the world will call on us to re-imagine living caring with each other and our patients!

In honor of our 40th anniversary, we have placed images of past conference brochures throughout the 2019 program. Whether you are a first-time attendee or a founding member, I invite you to reflect on memories past, acknowledge your present contributions and re-imagine yourself as an essential part of IAHC's future!

This year we are also celebrating the re-imagining of the IAHC Logo! Kathleen Sitzman and I have provided canvas totes with the new logo as a gift. It is our hope that you will carry them proudly and increase the visibility of IAHC wherever you go!

I am grateful to Dr. Kathleen Valentine, Clemson University and the Clemson School of Nursing, for hosting our 2019 conference and sponsoring two of our esteemed speakers: Dr. Edward Salas and Regina Holiday. The local planning committee, led by Dr. Valentine, has worked tirelessly to make this conference a celebration of caring science. I am also grateful to Dr. Marlaine Smith, Dean of the Florida Atlantic University, Christine E. Lynn College of Nursing, for graciously sponsoring our revered speaker Dr. Anne Boykin.

As I reflect on all of the activities that go into attending a conference (submitting abstracts, arranging schedules, traveling and spending time away), I want to thank each of you for choosing to be present, joining in a scholarly dialogue of human caring, and for re-imagining the patient care experience!

CLEMSON

School of NURSING

50 years strong 🐾 50 years forward!

Dear Participant,

Welcome to the Clemson University Nursing building, a new site of instruction for the Clemson University School of Nursing. We are so excited to be hosting the International Association for Human Caring's 40th Annual Conference as our School celebrates its 50th anniversary.

We opened this beautiful building in 2018 as a vibrant academic learning center to enable our growth as an NLN Center of Excellence in Nursing Education, and to meet the demand for increased enrollment in our undergraduate, masters, and doctoral programs. Here, we deliver state-of-the-art education to aspiring nurses and create a world-class interdisciplinary community of scholars, who contribute to knowledge generation and engage in leadership, research, practice, and service to optimize health and quality of life for people locally, nationally, and globally.

At Clemson's School of Nursing, we have a strong focus on interprofessional education and practice within our academic collaborations between the health systems in the Upstate, such as Prisma Health, AnMed Health, Bon Secours Health System, Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System and Greenwood Genetics Center. Within these relationships, we collaboratively create clinical learning environments that prepare talented and caring nurses. Each graduate enters nursing eager, knowledgeable, and committed to addressing the complex health needs of people where they live, work, and play.

Our research mission is evident as we host this IAHC conference, as well as a second international research conference offered August 14-17. Please join us here for the Inaugural International Nursing Conference for Excellence in Healthcare Design: History, Design and Innovation. More information can be found at www.clemson.edu/nursing/research/nursing-conference.

We are confident that you'll enjoy this IAHC conference and return home inspired by the outstanding presentations, speakers, and poster session. The City of Greenville offers you a warm welcome. Please don't hesitate to let us know how we can make your stay enjoyable and comfortable.

Sincerely,

Keynote Speakers

Thursday 9:00 AM – Eduardo Salas, PhD

Saving Lives: Insights from the Science of Teamwork

Dr. Eduardo Salas is the Allyn R. & Gladys M. Cline Professor and Chair of the Department of Psychological Sciences at Rice University. Dr. Salas' research interests include uncovering what facilitates teamwork and team effectiveness in organizations; how and why does team training work; and how to optimize simulation-based training. He has consulted with a variety of healthcare, oil and gas, manufacturing, pharmaceutical laboratories, industrial and governmental organizations. Dr. Salas has co-authored over 450 journal articles and book chapters and has co-edited 33 books. Dr. Salas is a past President of the Society for Industrial/Organizational Psychology and the Human Factors and Ergonomics Society. He is a recipient of the Meritorious Civil Service Award from the Department of the Navy.

Friday 9:00 AM – Anne Boykin, PhD

Choreographing the Dream

Dr. Anne Boykin is Professor Emeritus at Florida Atlantic University where she was Dean of the Christine E. Lynn College of Nursing for almost 30 years. She is Director of the College's Anne Boykin Institute for the Advancement of Caring in Nursing. This Institute provides global leadership for nursing education, practice and research grounded in caring; promotes the valuing of caring across disciplines; and supports the caring mission of the College. She is recognized internationally and nationally for her scholarship on caring. She has co-authored and edited several books, book chapters and articles focused on caring, transforming healthcare, nursing as a discipline and story as a method for studying nursing. Dr. Boykin is retired and serves as a consultant on caring-based healthcare transformation.

Keynote Speakers

Saturday 9:00 AM – Regina Holiday

The power of the Patient Story

Patient Rights Activist, Artist, Author, Speaker & Founder of the Walking Gallery

Regina Holliday is known for painting a series of murals depicting the need for clarity and transparency in medical records inspired by her husband Frederick Allen Holliday II. Afflicted with kidney cancer, Fred suffered poor care coordination, a lack of access to data and a series of medical errors and, as a result, lost his battle.

Continuing her advocacy through art, she started The Walking Gallery movement, where 400+ volunteer members don business suits or blazers painted with either their story, their loved one's story, or their mission within healthcare. Walking Gallery members attend medical conferences with a powerful visual story painted on their backs with the intention to help change public health policy. To date, she has painted over 270 canvases depicting the stories of providers working in HIT, pharma, medical organizations, and hospitals. Her latest book, The Writing on the Wall (2015), a memoir, takes readers on an odyssey of abuse and empowerment.

Regina Holliday travels the globe heralding her message of patient empowerment and inclusion in healthcare decision-making. She fearlessly stands before officials and practitioners demanding a thoughtful dialog on the role patients play in their own healthcare.

Congratulations 2019 International Legacy of Caring Awards

Name	Contributions to IAHC and Caring Science
Anne Boykin	Anne Boykin, PhD, RN, FAAN, Dean and Professor Emerita, Christine E. Lynn College of Nursing, Boca Raton, Florida, has been contributing to the study and practice of human caring and growth of caring associations since the early 1980s. As a charter member of the National Caring Research Association, she was appointed to the Association Board from 1988 to 1990. Dr. Boykin was co-founder/leader in the 1989 establishment of the International Association for Human Caring (IAHC), which evolved from the National Caring Research Association. In the first official IAHC elections by membership, she was elected President-elect from 1990-1993 and President from 1993 to 1996. Dr. Boykin served as an inaugural co-Editor of the International Journal for Human Caring (IJHC) from 1997-1999. Dr. Boykin's leadership and influence in promoting caring as the essence of nursing and health care are evident in her many articles and book publications, most notably her teaching and co-authoring of Nursing as Caring: A Model for Transforming Practice with Dr. Savina Schoenhofer. As Dean and Professor of Nursing at Florida Atlantic University (FAU), Dr. Boykin led the development of an exemplary scholarly curriculum and research program grounded in caring knowledge and hosted two IAHC conferences. With a mission and vision to preserve caring history, Dr. Boykin was instrumental in establishing the Archives of Caring in Nursing at FAU. In retirement, she created the Anne Boykin Institute to further promote and enrich the study, dialogue, and dissemination of caring knowledge and practice.
Marilyn Ray	Marilyn (Dee) Ray, PhD, RN, MS, MA, CTN-A, FSfAA, FAAN, as part of a small group meeting in the mid-1970s to study caring, attended the first formal National Caring Conference in 1978 to present her caring research. She served on the conference Advisory Board from 1981 to 1982, becoming a charter member of the newly formed National Caring Research Association in 1987 that grew out of the Caring Conferences. Dr. Ray was an appointed Board member of the new Association from 1988 to 1990, was a co-founder/leader of the newly organized and renamed International Association for Human Caring in 1989, and served as an elected member of the IAHC Board from 1990-1993. Dr. Ray's presence and presentations at almost every IAHC conference over the decades are testimony to her scholarly contribution to caring knowledge and practice. She created a Transcultural Caring Theory and her areas of expertise and research include: Transcultural Caring Science, Caring in Complex Organizational Cultures, Bureaucratic Caring Theory (Organizational Culture Theory), Complexity Science and translational research in practice culture, and Global Nursing. Dr. Ray has also contributed to student and other nurses' growth in caring knowledge and practice through generous scholarships and mentoring. As a Professor Emerita and Eminent Scholar and Professor at Florida Atlantic University (FAU), Christine E. Lynn College of Nursing, Boca Raton, Florida, Dr. Ray continues to mentor students, promote the goals of Transcultural Nursing and caring science worldwide.

Kathleen Valentine	Kathleen Valentine, PhD, RN, a founding member of IAHC, is presently Director and Associate Dean of Clemson University’s School of Nursing, and Chief Nursing Academic Officer of Prisma Health–Upstate. She has contributed to caring knowledge and practice for many decades. As a charter member of the 1987 National Caring Research Association, which was incorporated as the nonprofit International Association for Human Caring (IAHC) in 1989, Dr. Valentine served as IAHC President-elect from 1994 to 1996 and IAHC President from 1996 to 1999. She worked to establish fiscal stability, scholarly advancement and increased IAHC visibility. Most notably was her role in launching and serving as co-editor of the International Journal for Human Caring (IJHC) from 1997-2001. Dr. Valentine’s contributions to furthering caring as the essence of nursing and health care is evident in her many publications and presentations, clinical and academic work settings, her research, her national and international leadership, and her continued presence at IAHC conferences. As Director of Clemson University’s School of Nursing, she is hosting the 2019 IAHC conference in Greenville, SC.
Jean Watson	Jean Watson, PhD, RN, AHN-BC, FAAN, Nursing Human Caring Theorist, leader in Caring Science, and founding and honored life-time member of IAHC, was studying caring in the 1970s. She attended the first National Caring Conference in 1978. Her first book, Nursing: The Philosophy and Science of Caring, was published in 1979. Dr. Watson, a 1987 Charter Member of the National Caring Research Association, was appointed to the Advisory Board from 1985-1990, during which the Association formally incorporated as the International Association for Human Caring in 1989. Dr. Watson continued serving on the IAHC elected Board from 1990 to 1993 and hosted two IAHC conferences. She has remained active at annual IAHC conferences as keynote speaker and contributor. An annual Watson Scholarship has been established in her name to support caring research and practice. Dr. Watson has a long and lasting legacy in promoting caring as a world-renowned Caring Science nursing theorist, with many published articles, book chapters, books and her world-wide presentations. Dr. Watson is a Distinguished Professor and Dean Emerita, University of Colorado Denver, College of Nursing Anschutz Medical Center campus, where she held the nation’s first endowed Chair in Caring Science for 16 years. She is founder of the original Center for Human Caring in Colorado; past President of the National League for Nursing; and founder of the International Caritas Consortium. She is Founder and Director of the non-profit Watson Caring Science Institute and the Caritas Coach Education Program. Dr. Watson is recipient of 15 Honorary national and international Doctorates and was awarded the 2013 American Academy of Nursing Living Legend. She continuously works on changing policy, philosophy and practice toward healing relationships and environments.

Zane Wolf	Zane Wolf, PhD, RN, FAAN, Dean Emerita and Professor at La Salle School of Nursing and Health Sciences, is a founding member of IAHC. She was appointed to the Advisory Board of the National Caring Research Conferences from 1983-1984 and served on the membership-elected IAHC Board from 1993-1995, President-elect from 1996-1999, and President from 1999-2002. She has hosted three IAHC conferences. Dr. Wolf was instrumental in co-leading the launch and sustainability of the International Journal for Human Caring (IJHC), serving as co-editor from 1999 to 2001 and then Editor from 2001 to present. As Editor, Dr. Wolf successfully moved the IJHC from print to an online format. Dr. Wolf is also a co-Editor of Caring in Nursing Classics: An Essential Resource (2013). Her many presentations and publications, including Exploring Rituals in Nursing (2014), are testimony of her commitment to promote and record caring history, theory, and practice. Dr. Wolf has been honored and recognized for her exemplary caring service in her many teaching and academic positions since 1980 at La Salle School of Nursing and Health Sciences. She has served as a faculty member, Acting Chair, Director of Graduate Programs and 15 years as Dean. She is recognized for her caring collegiality, expertise, advocacy and support of faculty, students and community.

Parking:

Parking is available in Lot 13 of the Greenville Memorial Medical Campus for IAHC attendees. From Lot 13, attendees will walk up the steps from the lot, cross the crosswalk, and take a right. They will pass a gated lot (Lot 14) on their left and the CU Nursing building is directly beside Lot 14 (also on the left). There is a sidewalk that will lead them from Lot 13 to the CU Nursing building (building 18 on the map below).

Shuttle Stop:

Attendees can meet the shuttle at the shuttle stop located in Parking Lot 13. The shuttle runs a 15-minute route, and if it isn't there when an attendee arrives, he/she can request it by calling (864) 455-7931. This number should also be posted on the shuttle stop.

International Journal for Human Caring

Edited by: Zane Robinson Wolf, PhD, RN, FAAN

<https://www.editorialmanager.com/humancaring/default.aspx>

- Established in 1997, the International Journal for Human Caring (IJHC), the official journal of the International Association for Human Caring (IAHC). IJHC is a peer-reviewed journal which serves as a scholarly forum for:
- Identifying major philosophical, epistemological, and professional dimensions of care and caring to advance the body of knowledge of human care.
- Disseminating research findings about caring and sharing knowledge through publications, public forums, and research conferences.
- Authors from all disciplines are encouraged to submit manuscripts.
- Springer Publishing has supported the success of the International Journal for Human Caring, thus assuring the journal's continued success. The association appreciates Springer Publishing's commitment to disseminating the work of caring in health care throughout the world.

Caring Science, Mindful Practice

Kathleen Sitzman, PhD, RN, CNE, ANEF, FAAN, Distinguished Watson Caring Science Scholar

This course provides tools for caring professionals to enhance professional care practices in everyday work environments. Learners will be introduced to Watson’s Caring Science. Exploration and learning related to key concepts will be supported through the introduction of mindfulness practice, reflective narrative, and contemplative art. Asynchronous discussion, moderated by a team of educators knowledgeable in Caring Science will provide a forum for ongoing Interaction and discovery among participants during each 4-week class session. Certificates of completion will be earned by participants who complete the course learning modules.

There are no required “meeting” times for this course. Each participant is asked to follow the course calendar in terms of due dates but otherwise participants may log in and review the materials each week when they can fit it into their schedule. They are also asked to participate in asynchronous discussion boards during the time blocks indicated on the course calendar but there are no specific meeting times due to the broad range of time zones that students in the course typically come from. There is a lot of asynchronous interaction between course instructors and participants, people from all over the world share their thoughts about caring in their lives and work. I hope you and your colleagues will join us.

2020 Annual IAHC Conference

at Western Norway University of Applied Sciences

Dear Colleagues and Friends

Warmly welcome to the 2020 annual IAHC conference at Western Norway University of Applied Sciences in the beautiful World Heritage City of Bergen <https://en.visitbergen.com/> in western Norway.

The theme of the conference is Linking Theory to Caring Practice and Caring Practice to Theory.

The university <https://www.hvl.no/en/> is new since almost two years, and is a merge of three former universities. It is now one of the largest institutions of higher education in Norway, with 16 000 students and 1 700 employees. One of three profiles for the university is sustainability. Sustainability is also a very important concept for caring science in order to contribute to a sustainable caring for the whole patient grounded in disciplinary knowing and ethos. In addition, the leading values of the university, i.e. and challenging, sharing and closeness, have close bearing to caring and clinical caring science.

The Stord campus of the university has established a very successful master's in clinical health – and caring science since ten years, where the ambition is to develop the scientific discipline together with the education. In connection to this the three leading values mentioned above is of great importance for integrating the theory base to clinical practice in learning activities. All the students write their master thesis within the discipline, and therefore contribute with theory fragments to the discipline. The goal of clinical caring science is to unite theory and practice, and the motto is that there is nothing as practical as a good theory. Many students say that for the first time they have acquired words for their clinical experience. In addition, strikingly many students want to go on with doctoral studies in order to continue the work they have started in their master thesis.

The master education is mainly net-based which opens up for making it international in the future.

The Western Norway University of Applied Sciences and the Centre for Care Research at the university sponsor the conference together with the International Association for Human Caring (IAHC).

Hope to see you as an honoured speaker or guest at 2020 annual IAHC conference in June 11th - 13th in Bergen.

Take care,

Arne Rehnsfeldt

CLEMSON UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF NURSING WELCOMES THE 40TH ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR HUMAN CARING CONFERENCE

Clemson University stays committed to world-class education and research, as well as a high quality of life. Nestled in the Upstate of South Carolina, the University sits on 1,400 acres that include the shores of Lake Hartwell, the heights of the Blue Ridge Mountains and its very own forest.

The Clemson University School of Nursing is housed in the College of Behavioral, Social and Health Sciences. The college also offers degrees in communication; parks, recreation and tourism management; political science; psychology; public health sciences; and sociology, anthropology and criminal justice – all with a focus on building people and communities.

The School of Nursing is an integral part of Clemson University. The school is committed to the public service of South Carolina, the nation and the world. The mission of the School of Nursing, as a scholarly center of learning, is to educate students at the baccalaureate, master's and doctoral levels to become health care professionals who advance scientific knowledge and evidence-based practice through research and outreach.

The School of Nursing is shaping the future of nursing and health care through leadership, scholarship and practice. It puts a premium on the health and quality of life of all people everywhere.

The goals of the School of Nursing are to:

- Deliver state-of-the-art education to aspiring health care professionals to prepare them for excellence in practice and leadership within a dynamic health care environment.
- Create a vibrant, interdisciplinary community of scholars that contributes to knowledge generation and dissemination, thereby shaping practice and policy.
- Engage in leadership, research and service to optimize health and quality of life for people locally, nationally and globally.
- Increase diversity among faculty, students and staff within a mutually respectful, professional environment.
- Expand opportunities and resources through the development of relationships with clinical, community and corporate partners, and alumni.
