Please explain the requested change(s) and offer rationale below or on an attachment

Years ago, the department offered SPW 3030: Introduction to Hispanic Literature, as the introductory literature course in our undergraduate major and minor. Several years ago, the department decided to split that course into two separate courses: SPW 3012: Introduction to Peninsular Spanish Literature and SPW 3021: Introduction to Spanish American Literature, to try to facilitate students' completion of the major/minor in a timely fashion. Recently, the department consolidated our undergraduate degrees into a single degree (BA in LLCL) with concentrations in the disciplinary areas. As a result, the department would now like to reinstate SPW 3030 as an option to fulfill the Literature and Civilization component of both the major and minor, so that it may be offered every semester. Students may now take SPW 3012 and SPW 3021, or SPW 3030 and another 4000-level literature course.
