Hi all,

Since Rebecca is fine with this proposal, the Department of Political Science supports Mark's proposed new class and the course change.

Best,
Dukhong

Dear Dukhong,

As Miguel said, this will be a distinct honors course; the HC core will not include POT 2000 and the Boca core would not include POT 2002 so there'd be no overlap and no impact on Rebecca's class. I hope this is okay because after the BOG removed many of the Honors College social science core courses, we have slim offerings there.

Thanks,
Mark

Good afternoon, everyone,

This class would be taught exclusively in the Honors College in the Jupiter campus to Honors College students.

Dear Mark,

Thank you for contacting and informing us about this issue. We don't have problems with the course change and support that. However, as to the new course proposal, Dr. Rebecca LeMoine teaches the POT 2000 (Global Political Theory) class, which is already on the Social Science Group B classes list. What will happen to her class if your proposed class (POT 2002: Honors Introduction to Political Theory) gets listed in the category? There seems to be a substantive overlap between the proposed and her classes. I am including Dr. LeMoine in this email communication. She is concerned that her class might be affected by this proposal. We would appreciate it if you could clarify and address this potential issue.

Best,
Dukhong

Dear Dukhong,

Because of the changes to the Core, I have to reapply for 2 of my courses that were removed from core to be reinstituted as Social Science group B. I have the okay of Tony Ambrosio of the Core Curriculum Committee, who has reviewed both.

I am proposing POT 2002 as a new course (I formerly taught this as POT 3023), Honors Introduction to Political Theory.

I am making a change of course proposal for POS 2692 Honors Punishment, to POS 2692 Honors Law, Crime and Justice.

Could I get an email from you indicating I've consulted your department and that you have no objections, to include with the materials we'll need to submit to UUPC by around April 11 (for its April 21 meeting)?

Thanks, and let me know if you have any questions,

Mark
