

Invited Speaker
Michelle Crow
Cornell University

What are faculty roles in supporting the writing of linguistically and culturally diverse students?

Michelle Crow is a founding member of the Association for Writing Across the Curriculum and the founding director of English Language Support Office at Cornell University, which “provides writing and speaking support for multilingual graduate and professional students and postdocs across Cornell’s ten colleges and units.”

Monday Dec. 6
2:30 PM
BU 207

Selected Publications:

- “Identity Construction, Second Language Writers, and the Writing Center”
- “Teaching for Agency: An Alternative Approach for Translingual Pedagogy”
- Sustainable WAC: Launching and Developing Writing Across the Curriculum Programs